Maha govt imposes new lockdown restrictions

The Maharashtra government on Wednesday imposed several new restrictions including a ban on inter-city and inter-district travel and curbs on office attendance in an attempt to bring the spiralling coronavirus infections under control. Central, state and local governing body offices shall function with 15 pc attendance. But emergency services dealing with the Covid-19 pandemic will be exempted from this rule.

24 PATIENTS DEAD AS O_2 SUPPLY HIT

Leakage in oxygen storage tank in Nashik civic hospital leads to disruption in supply of air to Covid patients on ventilator support; Maharashtra orders a high-level probe

Medical oxygen gas leaks out from a storage unit at Zakir Hussain Municipal Hospital in Nashik on Wednesday | PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mumbai

AT least 24 Covid patients who were on ventilators in Dr Zakir Hussain Hospital in Maharashtra's Nashik district died after their oxygen supply suddenly stopped on Wednesday.

The tragedy was triggered by a leakage in the oxygen storage tank. Maharashtra health minister Rajesh Tope said the leakage happened due to a technical glitch. "The oxygen storage tank's outer pipe leaked, resulting in dropping of the pressure of oxygen."

District Collector Suraj Mandhare said that a pivate company looked after the tank maintenance, adding technicians closed the tank valve preventing more deaths.

Some of those who died were on the path to recovery and were due to be discharged from hospital in a few days, their family members claimed.

Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray said he does not have words to express his grief. "How to console the relatives of the deceased? This is an accident but this is a very sorrowful incident," he said in a statement. The CM also ordered a probe to find out if the incident was due to negligence. "A high-level probe will be conducted. No one should do politics over this incident. The entire Maharashtra is mourning over this incident," he added.

Thackeray also announced ₹5 lakh financial help to the family members of those who died in the accident.

PM Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah also expressed anguish over the tragedy.

Dr Zakir Hussain Hospital is run by the Nashik Municipal Corporation, which is ruled by the Bharatiya Janata Party.

Meanwhile, Tope said Maharashtra is facing acute shortage of medical oxygen.

"We produce 1,280 MT of oxygen and all of it goes to hospitals. We are getting 300 MT from other states but we need an additional 500 MT to fulfil the demand as per the present active patient numbers," Tope said.

Delhi back from oxygen brink

SOMRITA GHOSH @ New Delhi

THE oxygen situation stayed critical for most of the day here on Wednesday with major hospitals sending SOS seeking immediate replenishment and the Delhi High Court criticising the Centre for its poor management and lopsided priority. The situation changed by early evening with the Centre increasing Delhi's oxygen quota and Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal acknowledging it.

Max, the largest private sector healthcare provider in NCR Delhi, put out a statement saying it has between 2 and 18 hours of oxygen alone in its network. The group has around 1,400 Covid-infected patients, most of whom require oxygen support.

Another issue flagged by many of the hospitals was that the oxygen units were diverted to either Faridabad or commandeered by the city administration or stopped by the local administration at Greater Noida. "At Manipal Hospital, we have 230-plus Covid patients. Our oxygen supplier Linde is willing to supply from its Faridabad unit but Garima Mittal (Faridabad Deputy Commissioner) has taken control over Faridabad Linde plant... We have only 12 hrs of supplies left," said Pramod Alagharu, CEO of Manipal Hospitals. However, Garima Mittal denied the allegation.

Dr Karan Thakur, vice-president of Apollo Indraprastha, too, had similar supply issues.

In the Delhi High Court, the Centre was hauled over the coals for the mess. "Why is the Centre not waking up to the gravity of the situation? We are shocked and dismayed hospitals are running out of oxygen but steel plants are running," the court said and ordered providing oxygen by whatever means forthwith.

It said heavens are not going to fall if industries, including steel and petroleum, run on lower capacity till oxygen is imported.

State govts can buy Covishield at ₹400 per dose

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

TWO days after the Centre liberalised the Covid19 vaccination policy by allowing states and private hospitals to directly procure the shots from the manufacturer, Serum Institute of India on Wednesday said it will sell Covishield at ₹400 per dose to states and ₹600 per dose to private hospitals.

Currently, Covid vaccination at private hospitals costs ₹250.

The vaccine will continue to be given free to those above 45 years in the vaccination centres run by the Centre, while states can decide on their inoculation programme.

SII said Covishield will still be cheaper than foreign jabs, which cost ₹750-1,500 per shot.

Though a statement by the Serum Institute of India did not mention the change in price to the Centre, in an interview to a TV channel, Serum Institute of India CEO Adar Poonawalla said the vaccine will now cost a re-negotiated price of ₹400 per dose to the Centre.

Currently, the Centre buys the vaccine at ₹150 per shot.

Karnataka records another big jump in new Covid cases

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE pandemic's second wave is picking up furiously in Karnataka with the state breaking its own record of highest daily additions in Covid-19 cases, almost on consecutive days. On Wednesday, the state recorded a whopping 23,558 fresh Covid-19 cases after witnessing 21,794 cases on Tuesday.

The third highest day's addition was recorded on April 18, at 19,067 cases. Consequently, the state's positivity rate has been spiralling, and was at 5.08 per cent on Wednesday.

The positivity rate going up is not a good sign, because this is happening despite the increased number of daily tests. On September 7 last year, when the number of tests had not yet crossed one lakh per day, the state saw its positivity rate peak at 12.54 per cent. However, despite the number of daily tests being considerably increased to over 1.5 lakh at present, the positivity rate has crossed 5 per cent and going north. The figure had fallen to 4.63 per cent on April 4, after which it has been steadily increasing - indicating that the infection spread is only gaining speed. Not surprisingly, the growth in the Covid-19 tally on Wednesday was 1.96 per cent, considering the tally was 11,98,644 on Tuesday. This is the biggest growth in percentage recorded in the second wave.

An indicator to the speed of the infection spread is the day's positivity rate going up to as high as 15.47 per cent against 1,52,281 tests reported on Wednesday. But the case fatality rate - the percentage of day's deaths to the cases added on the day - was just 0.49 per cent.

Hosps with less than 30 beds can't admit Covid-19 patients

EXPRESS NEWS SRVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Government is looking to prohibit small hospitals with less than 30 beds from treating Covid-19 patients. At a joint press conference on Wednesday, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said that hospitals without enough infrastructure to treat Covid-19 patients are posing a huge challenge.

"The government will issue an order prohibiting hospitals with less than 30 beds from admitting and treating Covid-19 patients. Small hospitals with 20 -30 beds should only give treatment to non-Covid patients. We will issue an order to this effect. If these hospitals don't have the infrastructure or ability to arrange oxygen, but admit patients because the reimbursement from the government is high, it may lead to loss of lives and the government will not tolerate that," Dr Sudhakar emphasised.

Adding that JSW Steel had agreed to provide additional oxygen supply to the state, the Health Minister said that there won't be any shortage anymore in Bengaluru. "Jindal company has agreed to stop its production if it has to, and supply additional oxygen. About 32 metric tons to one and 8 metric tonne to another institute has been sent from the additional 40 metric ton supply from Jindal Steels," he said.

O_2 units boost output, but storage a worry

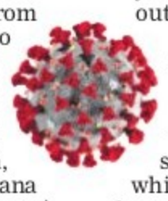
BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

AIR cannot be produced from hot air, or out of thin air. But a bit of solid groundwork always helps.

A day after Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar and Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar met oxygen manufacturers in the state, requesting them to scale up oxygen supply, the latter have almost doubled their output and supply of medical oxygen and are now running at their "maximum" capacity, according to industry sources.

"The plants can further accelerate oxygen manufacture, but there is no infrastructure, not only in the state, but also in the rest of the country, to support the additional oxygen availability. There aren't enough tankers, storage spaces, oxygenated beds, hospitals, health facilities and technicians to make use of inflated medical oxygen supply," sources told TN*IE*.

According to sources, the four oxygen plants in Ballari - Air Water India (formerly known as Praxair India), JSW Industrial Gases Pvt Ltd, Linde India Ltd Pvt Ltd and Bellary Oxygen Company - have doubled their daily output from 200 metric tons (MT) to 400 MT per day. "Out of this, 35 per cent is reportedly being supplied to the neighbouring states of Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and Tamil Nadu. The remaining 65 per cent of medical oxygen is reportedly being supplied to Karnataka, out of which, at least 40 per cent is said to be given to Bengaluru, where the demand for oxygen is very high," the sources pointed out.



According to government sources, the augmented oxygen supply from Ballari in the last two days has come as a succour to hospitals, which were running short of oxygen to treat Covid-19 patients.

Transport corporation staff finally call off strike

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE transport strike by over 1.1 lakh employees of state-run road transport corporations, including over 30,000 employees of BMTC, which had put commuters to great hardship, was finally called off on Wednesday.

The staffers were on strike since April 7, demanding salaries on par with the 6th Pay Commission recommendations and that they be considered as government employees.

The honorary president of the Karnataka State Road Transport Employees' League, Kodihalli Chandrashekhar, told The New Indian Express that the strike has been called off temporarily in the light of the spike in Covid-19 cases and also since the matter is listed in the High Court on Thursday.

While hearing a bunch of public interest petitions, the High Court on Tuesday had noted that it was the worst time to take recourse to strike when the common man needs the service the most. P7

COUNTING THE BIG CAT

Genetic analysis may be part of tiger census

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE tiger census this time could well be different. Elephants may also be counted alongside and the exercise will be more scientific. The Ministry of Environment and Forests is also thinking of genetic analysis in order to create a database which may help in solving poaching and other wildlife-related cases.

This was discussed at a meeting of officials from tiger reserves, wildlife sanctuaries, heads of forest departments from all states, officials of the ministry and from the Wildlife Institute of India, earlier this month. They also deliberated on how the tiger census, scheduled to be held post monsoon, should be undertaken in the wake of the Covid-19 situation.

"It was a preliminary meeting and nothing has been finalised as of now. Discussions were held on genetic and DNA analysis of elephants and tigers. It was discussed how to take it up on an experimental basis in some areas, as against the census, which covers the entire terrains. Nothing has concretised so far. It was just a thought process," a senior official from the Karnataka Forest Department told The New Indian Express.

In the case of tigers, identification is easier because of each one's unique stripe pattern. But that is not the case with elephants and hence, genome sequencing is being discussed.

"Though doing multiple things at the same time will be a tedious task, it has its pros and cons. There could be jumbling of data. There should be adequate staff and proper technical support. If it is done together, then time, manpower and resources are saved. A final call is yet to be taken, but discussions have started and experts are also being consulted," the official said. P5

Property tax payment runs into site glitch

Officials say system being updated, public can start paying from May 1; lack of technical expertise blamed

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

WITH the property tax website being upgraded, property owners are having a tough time paying tax this financial year to the Bengaluru Development Authority. A similar situation is being faced by BBMP property taxpayers too, but that is a result of failure to provide required information on the portal, said a top official.

With the new financial year starting, early birds who wanted to quickly pay their taxes to BDA could not do so. The Authority collects an average of Rs 26 crore from owners of its sites and houses, together numbering 1,02,000, said a senior official. "Of them, 70% pertain to vacant lands," he said.

Speaking to TNIE, BDA Public Relations Officer Girish L P, who is also in charge of online payments, said, "Our system is being updated in order to add the revised property rates. Unless that is completed, it will not be possible to pay tax. We are only collecting online tax payment since last year and collection has been temporarily stopped now. Public can begin payment from May 1."

Another top official said the lack of technical expertise was the real reason. "Due to the inability to work online, all revised charges are being written manually and updated online. This is really time consuming," he said.

It remains unclear why the Authority did not make the effort to inform the public about the issue. Rajesh Kumar, a taxpayer, told this reporter, "I was repeatedly trying to pay, thinking I did not know how to do it. Only after attempts on repeated days, I learnt the site itself had a problem."

Meanwhile, a senior BBMP official said the corporation had collected Rs 2,831 crore from around 17 lakh properties in the city for the just concluded financial year.

"Our payment site is perfectly alright. However, we have incorporated additions like insertion of mobile number and other personal details on our Form IV or V. Unless the public fills up these things, it will not take them to the next page. It is more a case of lack of awareness among the public than any problem from our side," he said.

The official said that zones may have been changed in the case of some properties compared to the previous year. "When the zone is not filled up correctly, the payer will not be able to pay tax," he added.

BBMP has already collected Rs 328 crore in the new financial year. There is no fixed property charge for a building and it depends on factors like dimension of the building, whether it is occupied by the owner or rented out, number of floors, incorporation of additional features the previous year and so on.

Alert Rly keyman averts possible disaster

Bengaluru: A possible accident was averted in the Bengaluru railway division between Channarayanapatna and Shravanabelagola stations when an alert keyman alerted a Station Master about a lorry fallen on the tracks. Discussing with govt to address shortage of beds: BBMP chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Wednesday said that while there is no shortage of normal beds in hospitals and Covid Care Centres, there is a shortage of ICU beds.

He said the matter has been raised with the State Government and discussions on this are under way. "At present, there are 7,000 normal beds and the target is to get to at least 11,000 in three days. Also, 1,400 beds are available for patients. Discussions are on with the government to get more beds at the earliest. Arrangements to shift Covid patients to required medical centres has been decentralised to the zonal level. The eight zonal war rooms are looking into the arrangements," he said.

Gupta said directions have also been issued to zonal officials to open the ten listed CCCs at the earliest, and also find smaller spaces for the centres in various wards. Instructions have also been issued to give preference to ILI and SARI patients, and those walking into hospitals for immediate medical attention.

On the issue of the rising number of bodies arriving at crematoriums, the Chief Commissioner said the rush is because many people from outside BBMP limits are bringing the deceased for cremation at BBMP-designated crematoriums. So on the directions of the State Government, areas outside BBMP limits in rural areas are being identified to cremate the deceased.

He added that as per directions of the Chief Secretary, the markets are also being shifted to open grounds and the city's outskirts. The places which were used last year will be used again, but not a week's time to shift as was given then. The exercise needs to be completed by April 23, as directed by the government.

IISc research aims at improving computer deep network

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THERE are crucial qualitative differences between the human brain and deep neural networks, and these gaps can be filled by training the deep networks on larger datasets, incorporating more constraints or by modifying network architecture, found researchers from the Indian Institute of Science (IISc).

The team from Centre for Neuroscience (CNS) studied 13 different perceptual effects and found that Convolutional or deep neural networks that have their object representations match coarsely with the brain are still outperformed by humans.

"Lots of studies have been showing similarities between deep networks and brains, but no one has really looked at systematic differences," said SP Arun, Associate Professor at CNS and senior author of the study in a note by the institute. "Identifying these differences can push us closer to making these networks more brain-like," he added.

In their paper Qualitative similarities and differences in visual object representations between brains and deep networks, Nature Communications, Georgin Jacob, RT Pramod, Harish Katti and Arun, noted that although Deep neural networks have revolutionised computer vision and their object representations across layers match coarsely with visual cortical areas in the brain, whether these representations exhibit qualitative patterns seen in human perception or brain representations remains unresolved.

During the study they found that phenomena such as Thatcher effect, mirror confusion, Weber's law, relative size, multiple object normalization and correlated sparseness were present in deep neural networks trained after training it for object recognition.

However phenomena such as 3D shape processing, surface invariance, occlusion, natural parts and the global advantage were absent in trained networks.

Explaining one of the experiments -- Global Advantage -- Georgin Jacob, first author and PhD student at CNS, said, "For example, in an image of a tree, our brain would first see the tree as a whole before noticing the details of the leaves in it. Similarly, when presented with an image of a face, humans first look at the face as a whole, and then focus on finer details like the eyes, nose, mouth and so on. Surprisingly, neural networks showed a local advantage. This means that unlike the brain, the networks focus on the finer details of an image first. Therefore, even though these neural networks and the human brain carry out the same object recognition tasks, the steps followed by the two are very different."

The study provides hints to what could be incorporated in the deep networks to improve it.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

22nd April: Some astrological alignments apply to us all. Where yesterday's stars urged us to reach agreement, today's encourage argument. It might be that some firm deals are unravelling, but then it could be a good thing if we all take the opportunity to reconsider commitments which seemed like good ideas at the time - but might not be working now.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Social pressures still seem to be very intense and the associated costs may rise. In fact, differences over money could be a source of friction between friends, and an avoidable one at that. Hopefully, tension will drop this evening, permitting brief relaxation.

TAURUS (Apr. 21- May 21)
Words that have been left unsaid for far too long can be ignored no longer. You can now gain a great deal from making fresh proposals and taking on additional responsibilities. What you need is respect, and with the right moves that's precisely what you'll get.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Look far a field for inspiration and don't waste any time. Other people have much to offer, but the ultimate inspiration should come from you and you alone. This means that you really don't need to accept any advice that doesn't suit you. Just make sure you have a good explanation ready.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Financial risks should be avoided, partly because there is a great deal yet to be explained. In relationships, you must pay some attention to your physical needs and well-being. In love, passions are still running high, and there'll be moments when you're walking an emotional tightrope.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Keep your options open and do everything in your power to ease existing tensions in close, personal relationships. Do try to be constructive, and attempt to free yourself from faded romantic memories. And, one other thing - tell someone close how you really feel about them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Although it may not meet all your needs or expectations, an agreement made now should prove lasting and durable. Your best move is almost certainly to anticipate every single little thing that could go wrong, and make sure that such problems are accounted for.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You are now in danger of creating a completely wrong and inaccurate impression, perhaps because you don't value yourself, or a particular relationship, as highly as you should. Be kind to lovers who don't see the world in the way you do. Oh, and listen to older relations. They may have the best advice!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The world still looks tense, but it's very difficult to see exactly where celestial lightning will strike next. There seems to be a tiny emotional matter outstanding, so deal with it before it takes on a life of its own. Plus, keep away from troublesome, time-wasting types.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Rumours and suspicions are rife, but you've got to distinguish between fact and fantasy. Don't fall into the trap of imagining that other people are out to undermine you. And, for your part, stamp on all unjust and unfair suggestions before they go any further.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
On no account allow friends to steal your thunder. The fact is that financial matters, from major transactions to small purchases, may go wrong. The simple remedy is to take everything at the right pace, and see that you are fully insured and up-to-date with the latest figures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It is impossible to see who will start arguments or cause friction today, although professional Aquarians do seem to be most at risk. Bend over backwards to give other people the benefit of the doubt. What's more, people you live with will see that you're ready to compromise on a personal matter.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
There is no need to get involved in the trials and tribulations of daily life. The Moon indicates that you may, if you wish, tuck yourself away in your sensitive shell, getting on with all those secret ambitions which make so much sense to you - but not necessarily to the rest of the world.

No repeat of migrant misery, says minister

State government to issue valid identity cards to construction workers through Labour Department

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

IN order to avoid a repeat of last year's misery, when migrant workers were left with no option but to pack their bags and walk home to distant towns and villages, the Karnataka government has in its latest guidelines allowed construction activities to continue, and will be issuing valid identity cards to construction workers. Labour Minister Shivaram Hebbar said builders will be given ID cards from their department to be issued to workers.

Last year, after the lockdown was imposed, many labourers left Bengaluru and other parts of Karnataka on foot, and on trains. Most of these labourers were from North India, mainly from West Bengal, Odisha, Uttar Pradesh and Bihar. A few months ago, some of them left as it was harvest season, especially those from West Bengal and Tamil Nadu who also wanted to cast their votes. They are yet to return.

Meanwhile, fearing another lockdown, many labourers were planning to return to their hometowns. Hebbar told TNIE that there are about 3.5 lakh construction workers in Karnataka, mainly migrant workers. There are no restrictions on construction activities, except on Saturdays and Sundays, till the restrictions are lifted.

The minister said that based on last year's experience, they are ensuring these workers do not return to their villages. "We are calling a meeting with builders and officials will be directed to issue valid identity cards from the labour department, which builders will give to their workers. They have to carry these cards while travelling to their workplace," he said.

The Confederation of Real Estate Developers Association of India (CREDAI), Bengaluru chairman Suresh Hari said it's a double whammy for the sector. As such, residential properties are not moving fast like earlier, and for the new projects, there is a shortage of workers as many did not return after the first wave.

"Now with only five workdays, ongoing projects will be delayed further as it will mean no work on eight to ten days," he said.

On payment, Suresh said the workers will be paid on the days they worked, which means they will not be paid for two days in the week. This may not work out for them and prompt them to return to their villages.

Get active, supervise dists: CM to ministers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

WITH Covid-19 cases on the rise in the State, Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa on Wednesday asked all cabinet ministers to stay put in their respective districts and supervise containment measures. Yediyurappa, who is under treatment for Covid reinfection in hospital, asked district in-charge ministers to coordinate with their district administrations to ensure complete implementation of the statewide Covid-19 restrictions. In a letter drafted to all Cabinet colleagues, Yediyurappa urged ministers to be proactive in spearheading measures to contain the spread of the virus.

Ministers who had almost forgotten about hospitals, paid surprise visits to check their preparedness for Covid cases, while others announced that they would follow suit soon. Deputy CM Dr Ashwath Narayan visited KC General Hospital in Malleswaram, Life Cells Laboratory, ESI Hospital in Rajajinagar, Victoria Hospital and Kidwai Memorial Hospital. He inspected the Covid treatment facility, lab situation and vaccine administration, among other things.

Revenue Minister R Ashoka told media that he too would make field visits to hospitals.

66 hospitals get notice for not reserving beds

ENS @Bengaluru

WITH the Covid second wave raging, the State Government had ordered all private hospitals to reserve 50 per cent of their beds for Covid patients. Since many failed to comply with the order, BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Wednesday issued notices to 66 more hospitals.

On April 18, 50 hospitals had been issued notices. Hospitals have been asked why they have not reserved beds, shared data or uploaded it on the BBMP portal.

The hospitals that were issued notices include Fortis, Apollo, Aaxis, ACE Suhas, Agadi, Ananya in Rajajinagar, Artyem, Athreya, Arteum, Bangalore Institute of Gastroenterology, and Blossom Fertility Centre.

Experts question genetic study

EXPERTS are, however, questioning the need for genetic analysis and DNA mapping. They are also questioning how data collection will be done as scats and dungs are not good options. Some questions need to be answered and genome sequencing for all the animals cannot be done, they feel. Through these studies, what the government trying is to get at also needs to be ascertained clearly, they added.

Declare health emergency in K'taka: Deve Gowda

Bengaluru JDS supremo and former Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda has demanded that the state government declare a health emergency and work accordingly in the wake of the drastic surge in Covid positive cases. In a letter to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, Deve Gowda pointed out that more people are getting infected in the second wave of the pandemic. With government and private hospitals struggling with the overload of patients, many of the affected are not able to get beds and medicines, he wrote in the letter. Gowda said that the government has to focus on supplying required facilities to hospitals, including oxygen and ventilators. ENS

Covid mortality in ICU touches 8.72% in fortnight

RANJANI MADHAVAN
@ Bengaluru

IN a span of 14 days – April 3 to April 17 -- the Covid-19 mortality rate in Karnataka's ICUs has been 8.72 per cent. There were 108 Covid ICU deaths of 1,239 patients admitted during this time, as per data from the health department. Of these high-risk patients, 39.95 per cent had comorbidities (495) and 60.05 per cent (744) were without comorbidities. However, when it came to the number of deaths, 61 people with comorbidities passed away and fewer patients (47) without comorbidities, succumbed.

For instance, in Bidar district, of 84 patients admitted in the ICU in these two weeks, 21 had comorbidities, but 63 did not. In Bengaluru, 22 deaths of the 261 admitted in the ICU were patients with comorbidities and 11 deaths were patients without comorbidities. Dr Pradeep Rangappa, Consultant, Intensive Care Unit, Columbia Asia Hospital, who is part of the tele-ICU team monitoring high-risk patients in Karnataka, said that Covid vaccination may have played a role in lesser disease severity among senior citizens, as they had got inoculated earlier. He observed that more people between the ages of 40 and 50 were reporting to the ICU. "We are seeing people as young as 28 and 30 in the ICU. This is unlike the first wave. They medicate themselves for fever at home, and when the disease progresses to include cough and shortness of breath, they come to hospitals, by which time the lungs are already damaged," said Dr Rangappa.

Dr Anoop Amarnath, Head, Scientific Board and Chairman, Geriatric Medicine, Manipal Hospitals, who is also part of the tele-ICU team, said the findings validate the fundamental connection between mortality and comorbidities, a phenomenon experienced globally. "The number and severity of comorbidities is directly proportional to increased mortality -- 8.72 per cent mortality rate in the ICU is good compared to 25 per cent in some international data. The time period of this data is too short to make an inference on more people with comorbidities getting admitted to ICUs," said Dr Amarnath.

An ICU Covid-19 audit done by Columbia Asia Hospital, Yeshwanthpur, between July 1, 2020, and November 20, 2020, showed that the highest number of patients admitted in the ICU was in the 71-80 age group, with 30 males and 10 females.

K'taka seeks 1,500 tons of O_2 daily from Centre

Health Minister says 95% of positive cases don't need hospitalisation; Docs visiting homes of isolated patients

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru:

SEEKING to address a rise in demand for oxygen in government and private hospitals, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Wednesday said a demand was placed before the Central government to supply 1,500 tonnes of oxygen to the state.

Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa had requested the Centre to provide 1,500 tonnes of oxygen on a daily basis. Sudhakar said 300 tonnes of oxygen is being earmarked for Karnataka. "Since cases are increasing, we may need 500-600 tonnes of oxygen by this month-end and 1,500 tonnes by next month-end. The CM has appealed to the Centre to provide additional quantity of oxygen. I have also requested the Union government to supply additional oxygen," he said.

He added that there is anxiety among people to get hospitalised soon after they test positive. He pointed out that 95 per cent of positive cases do not require hospitalisation. Doctors are visiting homes of isolated patients as consultants.

Patients with mild symptoms can be isolated at hotels or alternative arrangements. It will be difficult to provide treatment to severely affected people if mildly symptomatic patients are admitted to hospital. "We need to provide oxygen and ventilators to severely symptomatic patients, doctors should take the call on this depending on the severity of cases," Sudhakar said.

He updated that private medical colleges in Bengaluru have reserved 4,000 beds for Covid patients, medical colleges have reserved 1,000 beds, government hospitals 1,409 beds and private hospitals 7,442 beds for Covid patients.

"The web portal contains all information regarding bed availability, this system will be implemented across the state," he added.

Sudhakar said the youth should take the responsibility of vaccinating elderly people in their homes, and all those above the age of 18 should also get vaccinated. He added that 12.7 crore vaccine shots have been given across the country.

Nirani, Shettar ask steel cos for medical oxygen

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TRYING to tackle the severe shortage of oxygen in the state, Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar and Mines and Geology Minister Murugesh Nirani on Wednesday held talks with private companies to manufacture oxygen.

After JSW on Tuesday committed to supply 400 tonnes of medical oxygen per day, the other steel manufacturers, including Baldota and Jindal, have agreed to step in and produce medical oxygen.

Nirani told the media that the State Government is taking steps to supply oxygen to hospitals. He hoped that with the industries stepping in, the pressure on hospitals could ease. "Steel industries manufacture liquefied oxygen to use it in their plants. They have been instructed to divert these supplies to hospitals on priority basis. They have agreed to increase production and supply it to hospitals. This will help save many patients who are in need of oxygen and in ICUs," he said.

Nirani said he will hold talks with Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar to find out the exact quantity of oxygen needed. "We will take steps accordingly. Everybody should join hands with the government in this fight against the pandemic," he added.

State reports 116 deaths, mortality rate touches 1.12 per cent

COVID-19 fatalities reported on Wednesday were 116, down from 149 on Tuesday, and the state's mortality rate fell a notch to 1.12 per cent from 1.13 per cent on Tuesday.

With this record jump in the number of fresh cases, the state's Covid-19 tally right from the March 8 last year, when the first case was reported, has crossed the 12-lakh mark, at 12,22,202 cases, up from 11,98,644 the previous day.

Of these, a total of 10,32,233 were discharged and 13,762 died due to the dreaded disease. The figures were 10,25,821 and 13,646, respectively, on Tuesday.

With the infection spreading, the recovery rate, which had impressively risen till 98.06 per cent on January 30, has now plummeted to 84.45 per cent.

Under treatment

It was 85.58 per cent on Tuesday. A total of 6,412 patients got discharged on Wednesday, as against 4,571 the previous day. The number of cases currently under treatment has risen to an all-time state high of 1,76,188, up from 1,59,158 on Tuesday, and the state is the third in the country with the highest number of active cases.

Many turned away to give seniors their 2nd shot

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

WITH the demand for vaccines rising sharply owing to the surge in the second wave of the pandemic, many vaccination centres are now forced to turn away beneficiaries.

Doctors and officials in charge of vaccination centres at private medical establishments and government-run primary health centres (PHCs), are now down to counting the number of Covishield and Covaxin vials they have. At many PHCs, those coming for the first jab are being turned away as priority is being given to senior citizens who are in line for the second vaccine dose. Their worry has only increased now, after the Union Government announced that those above 18 years of age too can get the vaccine.

"We are worried about how many people we will be able attend to in the coming days. There is a shortage of doses to vaccinate people tomorrow. There are many senior citizens and people aged above 45 years who are yet to get the second dose. But, with the present stock, we are giving preference to aged people who need the second dose. We are also fixing time slots so that there is ease in administering the vaccine, but shortage of vaccines prevails," said a doctor at a PHC in West Bengaluru.

Similar is the case at private centres too. "The government wants us to increase the number of centres so that more people can be vaccinated. But they should supply sufficient quantity of doses also. Initially, there was not much rush, but now many people are coming forward. We are worried how we can attend to so many beneficiaries. The concern has increased as we also have to accommodate those aged above 18 years who are also equally vulnerable as they step out for work or studies," a health worker in charge of swab collection at a private hospital in Yeshwanthpur said.

Citizens too point out that the situation is getting worse and feel that the government should think of all alternative measures now. "With cases rising and shortage of vaccines, how does the government aim to tackle the situation? There is already a shortage of beds and oxygen in government and private hospitals. They should give priority to vaccinating those who need the second dose and not ask them to postpone the jab by another few days," said Pushpa B (67), who had gone to a PHC for her second dose, but was turned away. Some senior citizens are also coming together to visit large private hospitals for the vaccine.

Dr Arundati Chandrashekhar, Mission Director, National Health Mission, told The New Indian Express, "There is no shortage of vaccine. There are 3.3 lakh doses of Covishield and 1.75 lakh doses of Covaxin available. Also, five lakh Covishield and one lakh Covaxin doses are arriving for state."

In case of Bengaluru, she said, 98,000 doses of Covishield and 30,000 doses of Covaxin are available and the city will be getting one lakh doses more. "On an average, 30,000-40,000 people are vaccinated in Bengaluru every day and 2.5 lakh people in the state. So, there is no shortage," she said.

DAILY OUTPUT

Plants had hiked oxygen manufacture last Sept

"THE plants had increased the manufacture of oxygen in September last year to 400 MT daily. Earlier, up until July 2020, their daily output was between 120 and 150 MT. Liquid or medical oxygen is the purest form of industrial oxygen, which is largely used in steel plants," said sources.

There are seven liquid oxygen plants in Karnataka, which, till two days ago, were manufacturing around 812 metric tons of oxygen per day. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa wrote to the Centre to increase its quota, after the latter capped Karnataka's allocation to only 300 tons out of 812 tons that was being produced in the state.

AUTOPSY OF PATIENT THROWS UP -VE RT-PCR REPORT, FAMILY FLUMMOXED

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

IN a curious medical case, a 68-year-old woman who was diagnosed as Covid-positive and received treatment for it, was found to be Covid-negative after a private autopsy report.

The US citizen was admitted to a top Bengaluru hospital in March with comorbidities, and was treated for Urinary Tract Infection, during which she was diagnosed as Covid-positive, according to an RT-PCR test. But her husband, a retired space scientist from the US, was not satisfied with the diagnosis and treatment, and opted for a private autopsy which revealed that the woman was Covid-negative.

The scientist, who is originally from Bengaluru, and preferred not to be named, said he rushed his wife to a private hospital when she complained of acute stomach discomfort. She was treated for it and diagnosed Covid-positive. After a few days of treatment, the hospital discharged her and advised her to remain under medication in home quarantine. But when she started developing chills and fever at home, the family rushed her back to the same hospital where she was treated for Covid and passed away on April 5. The hospital report says she died of Covid.

The family was not satisfied with the hospital report and her husband decided to go in for an autopsy to find out the truth, but ran into a problem – no one was ready to do an autopsy on a dead Covid patient. The family finally zeroed in on Dr Dinesh Rao, who had performed similar autopsies a few months ago to find out changes in the body organs, especially the lungs, and submitted the findings to the government. The autopsy, which started on April 6, took almost a fortnight to be completed and the results were released to the family on Tuesday.

Technically, this is the first private autopsy report on any dead Covid patient to be carried out in India at the request of the family.

Dr Rao, head of Forensic Medicine, Oxford Medical College, who has served as head of Jamaica Forensic Department, told TNIE that all the swabs from the nose, throat, lungs and two other body parts showed RT-PCR Covid-negative. The autopsy said the patient died of heart attack -- Myocardial Infarction. The mystery gets deeper because the report summarises that the patient going home was a grave mistake because it resulted in damage to her brain and other tissues during her stay at home, which was reportedly under advice of the doctors, said her husband.

Ambulance, hearse services warned

Later in the day, the government announced a call centre number that will work 24/7 for oxygen and Remdesivir-related queries.

The joint press conference by Ministers Sudhakar and R Ashoka and Bengaluru MP Tejasvi Surya also saw the Revenue Minister warning of stringent action against ambulance and hearse services overcharging kin of Covid-19 victims.

Tejasvi Surya, who thanked the Union Government for approving Phases 2A and 2B of Namma Metro, added that he will tour hospitals in South Bengaluru to ensure 50 per cent beds are reserved under the government quota for Covid-19 patients.

Estimating the oxygen requirement in Karnataka at 1,500 metric tons per day by the end of next month, given the caseload, Sudhakar said that Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa has written to the Centre asking for the State's quota of oxygen to be increased to 1,500 metric tons.

Officials warned on delay in test reports

In wake of the rising complaints of RT-PCR reports getting delayed, officials have clarified that the issue has been discussed with health department and BBMP officials and warnings have also been issued to erring officials. The officials also stated that the state government has directed all testing agencies to publish the RTPCR test results of all those who have given their samples within 24 hours along with updating the same on the ICMR portal. The health officials said that three strategies were being worked out by BBMP at the moment. Also the BBMP is providing data entry operator support to government labs to reduce the delay.

Ensure timely aid to elderly: HC to DMs

Says senior citizens must get regular pension payments and medical support in view of pandemic

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Wednesday directed the State government to issue directions to all district magistrates to perform their duties in ensuring timely assistance to senior citizens in relation to regular payment of pension and medical support in view of Covid-19.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj said that the State Government is bound by the order of the Supreme Court, which directed that pension must be paid regularly to senior citizens. Therefore, the State Government should give effect of the order even to the pensioners who are unable to meet the officials in person to comply with the procedure such as submission of 'life certificate' every year, etc., the court ordered.

IN THE HC

In the context of Covid-19 and a sudden surge in cases, the State Government has to make every endeavour to comply with Section 20 of the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, especially in Covid Care Centres and Covid hospitals. The government should issue advisory to all concerned to keep in mind Section 20 for protection of life and property of senior citizens, the court ordered.

According to Section 20, the State Government should ensure that government hospitals or hospitals funded fully or partially by it should provide beds for all senior citizens as far as possible; separate queues should be arranged for senior citizens; facility for treatment of chronic, terminal and degenerative diseases is expanded for them; research activities for chronic elderly diseases and ageing is expanded, and lastly there are earmarked facilities for geriatric patients in every district hospital duly headed by a medical officer with experience in geriatric care.

The court passed the order in response to a PIL filed by Akhila Karnataka Vayovruddhara Okkuta in 2020, drawing the court's attention on the delay in payment of pension and other issues facing by senior citizens amidst the pandemic.

Govt must ensure laws related to footpaths are implemented: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

OBSERVING that laws relating to footpaths and public streets are rarely effectively implemented in the state, the Karnataka High Court on Wednesday said that it is the duty of the State Government to ensure that penal provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, Rules, Regulations framed under the Act and IPC are scrupulously implemented and criminal law should be set into motion against offenders who obstruct footpaths, public streets and bicycles tracks, and cause inconvenience to others, by parking vehicles indiscriminately.

"We hold that it is the duty of the State Government and its instrumentalities to ensure footpaths and public streets are free from obstructions and ensure violation of law is not taken casually and criminal law should be set into motion," the court said.

Motorists parking their vehicles on the footpath, and obstructing pendestrians is a common sight in Bengaluru | EXPRESS

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order, while disposing a PIL filed by DS Ramachandra Reddy, seeking directions to protect the rights of footpath users.

Directing the State Government and BBMP to issue instructions to the concerned authorities to invoke penal provisions and criminal law set into motion against offenders, the court said that the right to have footpaths and roads in reasonable condition is a fundamental right guaranteed under the Constitution.

Therefore, the State Government should invite the attention of all the authorities about the penal provisions and ensure that those provisions are invoked strictly, otherwise the directions issued will remain on paper, the court added, while directing the government to implement Sections 117, 122, 127 and 207 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

Whatever commitment the government has made to us, we will take it up after a meeting, tentatively towards the end of May."

The transport employees had gone on strike in December last year too seeking fulfillment of several demands and the government has accepted most of them.

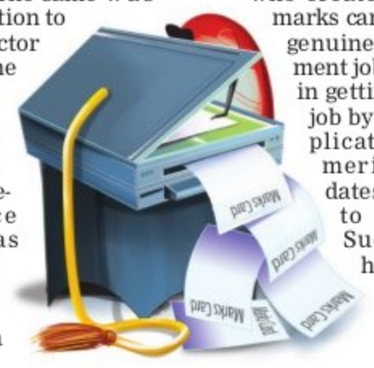
FAKE MARKS CARD: NO ANTICIPATORY BAIL FOR ACCUSED

MG CHETAN @Bengaluru

A CITY court has rejected anticipatory bail to an accused who had helped a 22-year-old youth get selected for civil police constable's post by creating a fake marks card.

Raju Bharamappa Harijan, a resident of Upparahatti in Gokak taluk of Belagavi district, had applied for the constable's post after the government had issued orders for recruiting 800 constables in 2020. He was selected in the provisional list and during the verification, it was found he had submitted a marks sheet of National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS), instead of the Second PU certificate. The same was sent for verification to the Deputy Director of NIOS and the latter had given a report stating it was a fake marks sheet. Following the report, a police complaint was lodged against Harijan in the Vidhana Soudha police station.



The investigation had revealed that Harijan had got the fake document from Arjun, who also hails from his hometown. While the police are on the lookout for him, Arjun had moved an anticipatory bail petition before the 60th Additional City Civil & Sessions Judge. After the arguments, Judge Vidyadhar Shirahatti rejected the bail petition.

"The allegation made against the petitioner is serious in nature. The case is still under investigation and the petitioner has to be traced and enquired for the mischief done by him, which is against society. Strict action has to be taken against the person who created the duplicate marks card and using it as genuine to get a government job. If they succeed in getting a government job by furnishing a duplicate marks cards, meritorious candidates will suffer due to such illegality. Such things will have to be curbed at the initial stage," the judge said in the order.

Cops detain gambling organiser under Goonda Act

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE city police detained a 58-year-old man, who allegedly organised gambling sessions, under the Goonda Act. This is the first time in the state that a person has been detained under the stringent Act for the said offence.

Police said B Hariraj Shetty alias Harish has cases against him at Vyalikaval, High Grounds, Cubbon Park, Koramangala, Ashokanagar, KP Agrahara, Basaveshwara Nagar, and Indiranagar police stations for gambling-related offences. The first case was registered against him in 2013, and until now, he has 13 cases against him as he continued organising gambling sessions at recreation clubs and video game parlours.

"He was not deterred by the cases registered against him and continued to organise gambling, despite having 13 cases. He was also making false allegations against the officers, who initiated action against him. Hence, the Central Crime Branch had submitted a report recommending that he be detained under the Goonda Act, following which the Police Commissioner issued detention orders," the police said.

PROTESTS AFTERMATH

VTU gives another chance for students

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AFTER widespread protests by students, Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU) has decided to give its first-year students a second chance to write exams. But for those who want to give it a shot this year, the exams will be conducted as per schedule.

The engineering colleges will make special arrangements for students who have tested positive and want to write exams. The University decided to give a second chance to students after the government on Tuesday suspended offline classes because of surging Covid cases.

> Exams will be held as per schedule and those who cannot attend will be given another chance along with the next semester examination
> Karisiddappa, Vice-Chancellor

Vice-Chancellor Karisiddappa said exams will be held as per schedule and those who cannot attend will be given another chance along with next semester exam. It will be considered a fresh attempt. Students opting for it will be allowed into the second semester first and then be made to write the exam at the end of the second semester.

Now, exams for just the first-year students are pending at the university. Students had taken to social media complaining about the management's apathy towards their plight as the examinations are being held offline.

Karisiddappa said the exams for two papers have been completed and attendance was 98 per cent. The academic calendar will be adhered to and the next semester will begin as per schedule on May 19. "Any delay in completing the examination will affect the academic schedule and future of students, as there has already been a four-month delay. Students should prepare well, take the exam seriously and follow all precautions and SOPs on Covid," he added.

There is widespread anger that despite the fresh stringent guidelines issued by the state Chief Secretary clearly mentioning that schools, colleges, educational/training/coaching institutions, will remain closed, VTU is holding offline examinations.

VTU has held two exams for first semester BE/BArch/B.Plan students. "The exams for two subjects have been completed and 98 per cent of the students attended it. Now exams for only four regular subjects are pending,"

SCHOOLS TO BE CLOSED TILL MAY 4

Bengaluru: The Primary and Secondary Education Department has ordered all schools in the state to remain closed from April 22 to May 4. Even offline classes for Class10 students will be discontinued. Only distance and online education can continue for the students. As per the order, students from classes 1 to 9 were to be assessed based on their comprehensive and continuous assessment done so far, by April 30, but the date has been advanced to April 26. Teachers have been asked to be present in schools from April 27 till May 4, and resolve any doubts of SSLC students. ENS

A PRIMER ON SELF-CARE DURING PANDEMIC

TNIE speaks to Dr Jacob John and Dr Giridhara R Babu to guide you on safely managing symptoms so as to stay safe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

WITH SOS messages flooding social media networks seeking assistance for hospital beds and oxygen for Covid patients in the wake of the unprecedented surge of infections during its ongoing second wave, it is important to realise that not all patients require hospitalisation. TNIE spoke to Dr Jacob John, retired professor of virology at CMC, Vellore and Dr Giridhara R Babu, senior epidemiologist and professor at the Indian Institute of Public Health, Bengaluru, to guide you on safely managing the symptoms so as to stay safe.

Q: Based on what parameters should patients decide whether to stay home in isolation?

Dr John: The parameters have not changed much from the previous wave. If you are infected and you have a sore throat, fever, runny nose, headache, loss of smell, it is likely you have Covid-19. Get tested and stay home if you're positive.

Dr Babu: The person should first be clinically fit and asymptomatic or a mild case with symptoms like mild fever below 100.4 degree F and oxygen saturation above 95%. Senior citizens with comorbidities such as hypertension, diabetes, heart diseases, chronic lung, liver, kidney disease, cerebrovascular disease, etc., after proper clinical evaluation.

He/she should have a separate room, preferably a separate toilet, too, at their residence for self-isolating and also for quarantining the family contacts. A care giver should be available 24X7.

Q: If at home, what are the medicines and other protocols to be followed?

Dr John: Have telephonic contact with the doctor. Touch base with the physician every half day if possible. Have a lot of fluids and rest. A strategy that works for many people is buying a pulse oximeter. As long as the saturation stays above 95, there is not much to worry about. Of course, this is possible only for the rich or educated.

Dr Babu: The suggested medication is Tablet Ivermectin 12mg for 3 days or Tablet Favipiravir 1800 mg (200 mg × 9) on Day 1.

On the subsequent days, Favipiravir 800 mg (200 mg ×4) BD for 6 days. Also include Vitamin C 500 mg tablets and Zinc 50 mg tablets. Monitor symptoms and body temperature, maintain adequate hydration, monitor oxygen saturation with a pulse oximeter and measure BP twice a day.

As for the protocols, stay in a well-ventilated single-room preferably with an attached/separate toilet. If another family member needs to stay in the same room, it's advisable to maintain a distance of at least 1 metre between the two.

Stay away from elderly people, pregnant women, children and persons with co-morbidities within the household. Wash hand as often thoroughly with soap and water or with alcohol-based hand sanitizer. Avoid sharing household items like dishes, drinking glasses, cups, eating utensils, towels, bedding, or other items with other people at home. Wear a surgical mask at all times, change it every 6-8 hours.

As for care givers, only one person should be asked to take care of the infected person. Use disposable gloves when cleaning surfaces or handling soiled linen. Wash hands after removing gloves. Clean the clothes and other linen used by the patient separately using common household detergent and dry.

Q: When should a person be shifted to the hospital?

Dr John: If the saturation drops well below 95 and the person feels breathless, it is better to immediately get in touch with your doctor and see if you should be admitted. If your saturation drops only slowly many days after your infection, your doctor may advise you to keep staying at home. You may recover without going to the hospital.

Dr Babu: Hospitalisation would be needed if the symptoms worsen, like shortness of breath/breathlessness; resting heart rate going beyond 100 or palpitations; oxygen level dropping below 94% on any occasion; or fever is above 100.4 degree F. The elderly with comorbidities, too, could be hospitalised if the doctor feels it is better.

Japali Theertham is Hanuman's birthplace: TTD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Tirumala

TIRUMALA Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) on Wednesday announced Japali Theertham near Akasha Ganga waterfall in Tirumala Hills as birthplace of Lord Hanuman.

National Sanskrit University vice-chancellor Prof V Muralidhara Sharma, who was one of the experts in the committee constituted by TTD to establish Anjanadri Hill of the Seven Hills (Tirumala Hills) as the birthplace of Hanuman, at a programme organised here announced that after four months of intense research and collecting various evidence, they established that Tirumala is the birthplace of the deity.

"It has been established based on puranic anthologies, literary evidence, epigraphic evidence and geographic details," Sharma said and added that Venkatachalam is also known as Anjanadri and another 19 names. Hanuman was born in Anjanadri on Treta Yuga, he said. Sharma explained that in Venkatachala Mahatyam and also Skanda Puranam, it was explained that Anjana Devi, mother of Lord Hanuman had approached sage Mathanga seeking a way for her to have children. She was advised to do tapasya on Venkatachalam and after years, she was blessed with Hanuman and the place where she did tapasya, became famous as Anjanadri.

Further, he said they collected evidence from 12 puranas and as for literary evidence, they were found in verses of the Kamba Ramayanam, and Annamacharya Sankeerthanas. He said that epigraphic evidence include inscriptions in Tirumala temple that in 12th and 13th centuries Venkatachala Mahtyam was recited in Tirumala temple, in how the processional deity of Sri Rangajanaya was brought to Anajandri for protection during the attack of Turks and later taken to Srirangam, inscriptions at Varadaraja Swamy temple in Kancheepuram, Sawal-e-Jawab, and a record of practices engaged in Tirumala by North Arcot First Collector G Stratton.

SECOND WAVE SET TO DRAG DOWN ECONOMY'S GROWTH

Economic forecasters are at it once again. Amid rising Covid-19 infections, localised lockdowns and curfews in select states, GDP growth estimates are being revised downwards at breakneck speed. The Indian economy is now expected to grow by 10-11% this fiscal as against the 12-13.5% projected earlier. The modest forecast so far has been from the RBI and the World Bank at 10.5% and 10.1% respectively, but they too could be tipped for the chop in the coming weeks. The economy is believed to have contracted by 8% in Covid-hit FY20-21, but hopes were high that recovery had already begun in Q4. But none would argue that the pace of recovery is so fragile that it could be knocked over with a feather. That knock has invariably come from the second wave of infections that struck economically important states like Maharashtra, Gujarat and Delhi hard.

GDP growth between April and June was supposed to be obscenely high at over 30%, largely due to a low base of 24% contraction seen during the same period last year. Analysts expect the current restrictions to remain in place until May and though the impact could be lower than 2020, it's undeniable that it will cut into growth like a hot knife through butter. Consumption, which accounts for about 60% of GDP, remained disappointing last fiscal, but was expected to pick up pace this year. That prospect is now a lost hope, at least in Q1.

Notwithstanding the grim state of affairs, chances of a fresh fiscal stimulus seem remote. But the RBI believes the less stringent lockdowns, an adaptation to the new normal, ongoing vaccinations, stronger global growth, front-loaded fiscal activism and lagged effects of easy financial conditions will support cyclical growth recovery. Still, multiple growth revisions appear as sure as fate and even though economists see either W, V, or K-shaped recovery, for now they are all subject to the 50-50-90 rule, where if there's a 50-50 chance of getting something right, there is also a 90% probability of getting it all wrong.

BIG BABUS ARE NOT ABOVE THE LAW

Lately, some IAS officers in Telangana seem to be not showing even scant regard for High Court orders and directions. The Telangana High Court had to put its foot down and take action against the errant officers who either ignored its orders or found ways to circumvent their implementation. Recently, the HC sentenced Nalgonda Collector Prashant Jeevan Patil to do social service at an orphanage for two hours a week for six weeks. This came after an appeal sought by the collector on a single judge order that he should pay a fine of ₹2,000 or serve a jail term for six weeks. The single judge found him and his junior, a civil supplies corporation official, guilty of avoiding implementation of a verdict on restoration of rice supply to a miller who petitioned the court against both the officials for the imposition of severe punishment on him for minor discrepancies.

In March, Sircilla Collector Krishna Bhaskar (who was collector of Siddipet earlier) and Siddipet Collector R Venkataram Reddy were sentenced to a three-month jail term for ignoring a restraining order issued by the High Court and dispossessing petitioners of their land for construction of Mallanna Sagar Project in the district. Along with the IAS officers, their juniors too took the rap. The petitioners were from Vemulaghat and the surrounding villages in Siddipet district. The officials are anxious to please their political bosses and under pressure to meet deadlines. But this cannot be an excuse for them to disregard directions from the courts. The High Court, while commuting punishment in contempt cases to social service, had said that being IAS officers, they should have known better and that non-implementation of the orders raised questions over their administrative capabilities.

Courts are the last resort for justice for anyone who feels wronged by the government and if the officers cannot implement the orders of the judiciary, it calls for a serious review of the way they are working. If not the executive, who else will implement the orders of the judiciary?

When you are so intensely focused on the signals you are looking for, you are liable to miss the other signs. How does one recognise this and avoid it?

TRANSFORMING ORGS: INATTENTIONAL BLINDNESS

R GOPALAKRISHNAN

Author and corporate advisor

SOUMYADIP SINHA

BUILDING BUSINESSES

Great leaders accept blame and pass along credit to colleagues. The less-than-great take credit and blame others—predecessors, coworkers and alleged enemies. They insult their own team, who must deliver results. Former US president Donald Trump is a prime example and there are many closer to home.

I reviewed three transformation risks—demyelination risk (28 January 2021), subsonic sounds (25 February 2021) and capacity for change (26 March 2021). In this article, I focus on inattentional blindness due to one of two obsessions: predetermined signals or self-obsession. It occurs when you are so intensely focused on the signals you are looking for that you miss the others. It could also be because of self-obsession; for example, Adolf Hitler, who was singularly obsessed with expanding lebensraum while enhancing his personal image through dress and highly practised demagoguery.

In a 1999 university experiment, respondents were asked to count the number of times the ball changed hands during the replay of a basketball match. Amidst the frames, significant nine-second interruptions were interposed of a big gorilla thumping his chest. Many observers completely missed the multiple appearances of the gorilla since their brain was focused on the assigned task of counting the exchanges of the ball.

Motorola made the first cell phones. Company leaders were so focused on existing telecom customers that they completely missed the 'gorilla' of their customers' customers. Nokia took the market by storm. Later Nokia too lost its lead because of its inattentional blindness to further technological developments.

Allaudin Mohammed II of Samarkand had conquered vast lands in Central Asia by 1217. However, Baghdad's Caliph An-Nasir rejected his claim to be Shah. Allaudin Mohammed was enraged. He became obsessed with the intransigence of the Caliph. When Mongol Genghis Khan looked to open trade relations with the Shah's territories, driven by his ego and unrelatedly furious at the recalcitrant Caliph, the Shah rebuffed the Mongols. Trying to maintain diplomacy, Genghis sent three men as peacemakers. The Shah executed the envoys and the Mongols were enraged. Genghis sacked the Shah's cities with a revenge that was considered brutal even by the very vicious Mongol standards.

To my mind, the history of Imperial Chemical Industries (ICI) illustrates how strong technological professionals missed the signals of a very different environment when danger was emanating from non-technology sources. ICI was a fantastic company of technical people. It had developed and owned more than 33,000 patents. The flip side was that its leaders treated the securities markets with disdain. In 1991, the Hanson Group, through its merchant bank, Smith New Court, bought a £240 million, 2.8% stake in it. ICI was caught in inattentional blindness thereafter, before descending into a long decline. ICI, now part of Akzo Nobel, is a pale force in world business.

Nokia took the telecom market by storm. But later, it lost its lead because of its inattentional blindness to further technological developments

The South Indian tea plantation industry provides another example. India had for long been the world's largest tea producer and exporter. Sri Lanka was a much smaller producer, but gradually became a major exporter since its domestic market was small. South Indian teas and Sri Lankan teas had some similarity in tea types and quality. From the 1970s, Russia became a major buyer of South Indian teas under the rupee/rouble trade agreement. The Russians bought humongous quantities at unrealistic prices because it was a managed trade, not a free trade. The South Indian industry lost its focus on quality and chased production volume blindly. The labour unions and the state governments of Kerala and Tamil Nadu also insisted that the wages and amenities for plantation workers be increased rapidly. This continued until the early 90s when, with economic liberalisation, it started to become obvious that South Indian teas would soon be outclassed in quality as well as in price. The industry had suffered from inattentional blindness and it took a decade of decline before plantation companies started to address the core issues at hand.

Anyone can self-test personal inattentional blindness as a leader by reflecting on six questions:

i. Do I feel that many people are out to block my initiatives and dynamism?
ii. Do people fawn over me?
iii. Do my colleagues feel free to offer different views or express a contrarian view?
iv. Do I feel a bit cutoff from people and hence, from reality?
v. Have I made special efforts to connect with the far parts of my organisation?
vi. When I do connect, does my visit appear stage-managed?

The answers offer the tell-tale signals. Blaming past leaders and imaginary enemies is a sign of incompetence and insecurity, a typical response being rhetoric and rabble-rousing. Such people are open to inattentional blindness.

WILL INDIA LEARN FROM WEST OR SUCCUMB TO PRESSURE?

S VIJAY KUMAR

Co-Founder, India Pride Project, and Author of The Idol Thief

For years, countries like India, Italy and Egypt rallied the world and the UN to stop the rampant looting of their cultural treasures and to shed the tag "source nations". The strong premise was that "history belongs to its geography" and in 1970, the UN Statute brought some respite though the "market nations" took their own sweet time to sign on. The UN Statute has so far flattered to deceive, hamstrung by the opaqueness of the art market and the sinister cabal that wants it to remain that way.

We have seen in previous columns how through a combination of clever subterfuge and strong lobbying by some academics and scholars, the art market has defied any attempt at policing the trade. This has meant that nations, both at origin and destination, do not even recognise that they have a problem, let alone create effective art crime teams within their law enforcement. This is again used by the collecting lobby to put up dismal seizure numbers, dispute crime statistics and thus actively stonewall any decent attempt to bring much needed transparency to this grey trade. Thus the art market, despite regular sales running into many billions, was the least studied, if not policed, of any mature trade, so much so that there are no clear statistics on the volume, turnover or even disclosure norms for buyer/seller names.

In today's market, KYC norms are the base for any transaction in India—from obtaining a SIM card to registering any sale. But the art market cabal seems to have successfully lobbied the Union culture ministry to dilute an already toothless antiquity act to allow or promote "a free market for antiquities" within India. The 1972 Antiquities and Art Treasures Act does allow for sale of registered antiquities within India but imposes certain controls. Apart from the basic guidelines to register any antiquity over 100 years with the ASI, the law prescribes the norms for becoming authorised dealers, which include maintaining mandatory sale and purchase and stock registers. The collecting lobby seems to have somehow convinced the ministry that this is draconian and is attempting to do away with a gatekeeper (in this case, the prescribed officer of ASI) who conducts an inquiry before registering an antiquity and instead replace it with an online portal. Further there would no longer be any requirement to secure a licence as authorised dealers; rather anyone can "freely" trade in antiquities!

What's startling is during the same period, Western countries—long maligned for turning a blind eye—have woken up and are bringing in tougher measures to regulate the art market. But more importantly, why are they doing it?

In sheer numbers, the EU (before Brexit) and the US are estimated to account for over 56% of the global art and antiquities trade. In early January, the US Congress voted to apply banking regulations to the antiquities market. The key reasons as cited in the New York Times report are startling: "Regulators have long worried that the secrecy of the antiquities trade, where buyers and sellers are seldom identified, made it an easy way to launder money." The US regulators also want to extend this into the general art market as well if its commissioned study finds similar links as in the antiquities market to "organised crime, terrorists, oligarchs using cultural artifacts to move illicit funds".

The US has implemented this despite lobbying. For instance, the NYT report says, "Federal disclosures show that the auction house Christie's has paid lobbyists more than $100,000 over the last two years to influence the outcomes."

While the actual details are still some months away, in essence the intent is to put the onus on dealers and auction houses—basically sellers—to demonstrate due diligence, and create capabilities to spot red flags and report them to law enforcement who then can see if they are indeed suspicious and open further enquiry. The other important compliance that was opposed tooth and nail by the art market cabal was disclosure of buyer/seller details—a long-held bastion of the art world as part of some strange client confidentiality clauses. The US regulators cleverly used the argument of how non-conformity with this would lead to the continued use of shell companies to conceal the identities of buyers and sellers.

What this effectively means is the end to possibly the best (worst) joke in the art market when antiquities are routinely sold by auction houses with the provenance reading "Private collection of a Swiss gentleman" (the sculpture in the picture for instance).

A Chola period Shiva bronze sold in 2007 by a famous auction house for $22,800. Its provenance: "Property from a private Swiss collection"

How about the EU? In April 2019, the European Council adopted new rules after almost a three-year struggle. These will effectively clamp down on illicit trafficking in cultural goods—one of the main requirements being the need to obtain import licenses on artefacts. The reasons that swung the majority EU members to adopt the regulation was the need to design rules to "ensure the effective protection against illicit trade in cultural goods and against their loss or destruction" and for "the prevention of terrorist financing and money laundering through the sale of pillaged cultural goods to buyers in the Union".

The new rules apply to the import of cultural goods from outside the EU, with a specific requirement: importers have to provide proof that their goods were legally exported from the country of origin and only then can they obtain the special license for EU importation. Further the information on such imports will be stored in a centralised electronic database that will be available to all national authorities in the EU.

Sadly as part of its post-Brexit trade deal with the European Union, the UK has rejected the new EU Rules—especially the import licensing regulations imposed by the EU notwithstanding that they were designed to safeguard cultural heritage from illegal trafficking. This is not surprising since the UK is known as a major gateway for looted and smuggled art. Despite the famous Sotheby's expose in the 1990s by journalist Peter Watson, the UK art market cabal has successfully lobbied its government claiming the new regulation would "cause great damage" to the art market. Whether anyone even has any data to what the size of this market is and what kind of revenues these sales yield in the way of taxes to the UK are uncomfortable questions that no one wants to ask.

It is time India wakes up and stops giving into the paid lobbyists to put a price tag on its heritage in the guise of free trade. Let us not throw out the baby with the bathwater and for once look at how even the Western world has realised the shady nature of the antiquities trade.

The decision of the Centre to provide vaccines to all above 18 is no doubt a welcome step. However, as we seem to be short on supply of vaccines to the point where people are struggling to get their second dose, adding new entrants may increase pressure.

Low infection rate after vax, shot in the arm for inoculation drive

Post-vaccination breakthrough infection rate in India not more than 0.04%, says ICMR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AMID concerns that many people are contracting Covid-19 in the current surge of the pandemic despite taking vaccines against it, the Centre on Wednesday released data to show that the number of such breakthrough infections is negligible.

At a press briefing, ICMR director general Balram Bhargava said only two-four in 10,000 Covid-19 infections post inoculations have been seen in India so far which was minuscule. He, however, did not elaborate on whether or how many of these infections led to severe disease or deaths.

The contraction of virus after being inoculated with a single or both doses of the vaccine is referred to as post-vaccination breakthrough infection.

The reassurance on a few instances of breakthrough infections comes ahead of the major expansion of the ongoing vaccination drive that is set to be opened for all adults in the country starting May 1.

"The narrative on breakthrough infections is distant from reality," said V K Paul, member (health) of the Niti Aayog who heads the national Covid-19 task force said.

A medic administers a vaccine to a person in Gurugram on Wednesday | PTI

"The incidence of breakthrough infection is very low. Even if Covid infection occurs after the first and the second dose of the vaccine, it does not cause severe disease. The risk of infection is there which is why masks are important, but the risk of severe infection reduces considerably."

Bhargava pointed out that the available vaccines are most effective mostly after two weeks of the second dose even though immune response could vary from person to person. The data presented in the briefing showed that out of the 93,56,436 people who received first doses of Covaxin by Bharat Biotech, 4,208 (0.04%) had a breakthrough infection. The proportion was the same for those who received second doses of the indigenously developed Covid19 vaccine as out of 17,37,178 who got the second and final jab, 695 got the infection.

Similarly, of 10,03,02,745 people who received the first dose of Covishield, 17,145 or 0.02% got a breakthrough infection and out of 1,57,32,754, who got the second dose of this vaccine, 5,014 or 0.03% reported breakthrough infection.

These figures have been released a week after the Centre for Disease Control in the US said that it had reports of nearly 5,800 breakthrough infections, out of the nearly 77 million individuals in the country who have been vaccinated.

Experts say such cases are not unexpected as no vaccine is 100% effective against infection but also say that the government should make public the detailed efficacy data of the vaccines being used. "It would be good if the government releases detailed real-world efficacy data of the vaccines to show how they are protecting against infections and severe disease and will build confidence in people," said immunologist Seyed Hasnain.

Inconsistency in MP govt's tally & cremation record

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE second wave of Covid-19 is setting daily new marks in Madhya Pradesh. As numbers rise, the gap between the official death toll and actual number of cremations and burials is also increasing. There is discrepancy in the tally released by the state government and the record at the facilities where last rites are held in the state capital of Bhopal.

As per figures from the three cremation/burial facilities only in Bhopal, as many as 597 bodies were cremated and buried following Covid-19 protocols from April 16 to April 20. As per the state government data pertaining to Covid-19 patients, only 348 deaths were reported in the same period. In Bhopal, Bhadbhada Cremation Ground, Subhash Nagar Cremation Ground and Jahagirabad Kabrastan have been designated for cremation and burial of Covid-19 victims.

The state government has denied that the death tally is incorrect. Medical Education Minister Vishwas Sarang, who has been appointed the minister-in-charge for Bhopal district's Covid control measures, said: "I'm saying this with responsibility again, the government doesn't intend to hide Covid death figures. The government isn't going to get any award for hiding figures."

The opposition is seeing this as an opportunity to attack the BJP-led government. "This government is acting shamelessly. What will it achieve by concealing data of deaths, particularly when the media is showing aerial pictures of rows of funeral pyres not only in Bhopal, but also in other cities," said Bhupendra Gupta, Congress leader.

Laad Singh, a staff at Bhadhbhada Cremation Ground, said: "Never have we witnessed such a huge rush of bodies. There are long queues of people in PPE kits waiting to cremate their loved ones. Pyres are lit up to 9 pm daily."

Free vaccination for 18-plus in Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh from May 1

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Raipur/Bhopal

THE governments of Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh have announced free vaccination for all citizens above 18 years of age if their states from May 1.

The announcements were made by Bhupesh Baghel and Shivraj Singh Chouhan, the chief ministers of Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh, respectively.

"We will take every measure to ensure all safeguards for our citizens. The state government will bear cost of Covid-19 vaccination," tweeted Baghel.

The Congress government of the state reiterated its demand to the Centre to ensure availability of sufficient supply of vaccines. Chouhan said the decision to vaccinate free of cost was inspired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi's announcement to start vaccination for everybody above 18.

We will take every measure to ensure all safeguards for our citizens. The state government will bear cost of Covid-19 vaccination
Bhupesh Baghel, Chhattisgarh CM

"The Prime Minister has announced a big relaxation to the country by opening the gates for vaccinating those above 18 years. The Centre is yet to formulate detailed guidelines for its rollout, but the vaccines will be administered to all those aged above 18 free of cost, just as it had been done for others in the past," said Chouhan.

Chairing an emergency meeting of the state cabinet in Bhopal amid the continued surge in Covid-19 cases, the chief minister assigned specific duties to the ministers.

He said again that for three months, free ration will be provided to the poor people of the state, besides ensuring that migrants are assured of livelihood and food.

Meanwhile, the Chief Minister has said that district collectors would be ranked on the basis of positivity rates in their districts.

Effective implementation of mass curfew should be ensured in all districts till April 30. There are also talks of launching a 'Kill Corona' campaign in severely affected districts. Every effort should be made to improve the arrangements of home Isolation and care centres, Chouhan told district collectors through video conferencing from his residence.

Japanese PM calls off India trip

New Delhi: Japanese PM Yoshihide Suga has cancelled his trip to India owing to the steep rise in the number of coronavirus cases. Suga will stay back in Japan to focus on tackling the surge of Covid cases in his country, local reports said. Prior to this, UK PMi Boris Johnson, for the second time in the year, hadcalled off his trip to India. PM Narendra Modi had also put off his trip to Portugal due to the rising cases in the country.

Monitoring India situation: US

New Delhi: The US state department said it is closely monitoring the Covid situation in India. "There are protocols in place, requiring testing for international travel. What is true is that we are tracking the course of the COVID outbreak in India very closely as I mentioned before, Secretary Blinken and Foreign Minister Jaishankar did discuss it yesterday," State Department spokesperson Ned Price said.

Covid claims legendary Bengal poet

Kolkata: Legendary Bengali poet Shankha Ghosh, winner of Jnanpith Award and Padma Bhushan, passed away on Wednesday. He tested positive for Covid-19 a few days ago. He was 89. Ghosh was in home isolation after testing positive on April 14. His condition deteriorated since Tuesday evening and he was on ventilation since then. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee expressed condolence to the poet's family. "I have directed the chief secretary and final rites will be performed with full state honours," Mamata Banerjee said. He continued to be a socially and politically conscious poet till his final days.

High court frowns, Char Dham Yatra SoP not out yet

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

OFFICIALS of the Uttarakhand government have said every necessary precaution will be taken and guidelines will be issued soon for the upcoming Char Dham Yatra, after the Uttarakhand High Court said that the event cannot be allowed to turn into another 'Kumbh'.

Issuing a number of directions on Tuesday while hearing a PIL regarding Covid situation in the state, the court asked the government to issue guidelines for the Yatra scheduled to start on May 14. The recent Kumbhmela was attended by millions and recorded thousands of positive tests amid uncontrollable scenes.

Ravinath Raman, chairman of Char Dham Devsthanam Board which manages the Yatra, said: "The guidelines will be issued soon. We are assessing the Covid situation and decision will be taken accordingly." On Wednesday, the state registered its highest ever single day spike with 4,807 cases. The total number of active cases is 24,893. Earlier, state Tourism Minister Satpal Maharaj had made negative RT-PCR reports mandatory for the Yatra. "Guidelines will be issued soon," said the minister.

The SOPs will include many conditions to visit the four shrines at Kedarnath, Badrinath, Yamunotri and Gangotri. There was a fall in the number of pilgrims last year.

After 38 lakh in 2019, only 4.2 lakh visited the temples in 2020. The state government is likely to put a limit to the number of pilgrims visiting every shrine on a day.

Pandemic will end up as an endemic, opines senior immunologist Ganguly

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

SENIOR immunologist Dr Dipyaman Ganguly, principal scientist, CSIR-Indian Institute of Chemical Biology in Kolkata, has seen some encouraging signs. Few cases of reinfection and effectiveness of therapy using immunosuppressants are some of those. He prescribes a combination of personal commitments and policy-level commitments in addition to mass vaccination in order to reduce the pandemic to a manageable proportion. Excerpts...

So far what have we understood about our immune response to the SARS CoV 2 and what remains to be understood?

We gathered quite a bit of information in 2020. But this disease is too enigmatic for us to be confident that we know everything about it. It was clear earlier that the virus is going to be a menace for a long time. It is mostly clear that the pandemic will end up as an endemic disease.

The immunity conferred by natural infections, contributed by antibody-producing B cells and T cells, is working well for one and-a-half years. In this second wave in India, reports of reinfection are rare, which is a dependable testimony for this assuring conclusion. Evidence in support of a hyper-activated immune response in the patients succumbing to severe disease is also being supported in the second wave. Therapy using immunosuppressants like corticosteroids are saving a lot of lives.

Most of the healthcare workers and a considerable fraction of senior citizens have received the complete vaccine regimen. Anecdotal evidence suggests they are also not being documented to succumb to symptomatic disease in the second wave. These are dependable positive information.

Delhi, Mumbai and Pune which had seen quite a few peaks earlier are seeing an even worse situation. Do you think serosurveys - showing quite high seropositivity rates in these cities -painted a misleading picture and lured people and governments into some sort of complacency?

I do not think seropositivity rates were misleading. Serosurveys never reported a level of seroprevalence that could even theoretically prevent pandemic progression. A large number of citizens were left susceptible and they are now getting infected. As I mentioned, the second wave in India is yet to record a significant number of reinfections. One may consider the possibility that the seroprevalence data were wrongly read by lay citizens, which perhaps led to their complacent behaviour of doing away with the physical distancing measures.

What level of Covid vaccinations should be achieved before we can see the pandemic ebbing?

Vaccination alone cannot end the pandemic. The so-called 'Swiss cheese' model of pandemic protection, to explain how to prevent accidents from occurring, is frequently invoked by experts. This tells you that a single measure cannot be full-proof. A combination of personal commitments to pandemic-related restrictions as well as policy-level commitments to contact-tracing, ramped-up testing and viral sequencing, easy accessibility to healthcare, in addition to mass vaccination, can reduce the pandemic to a manageable proportion.

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

LAUNCHING a blistering attack on the Prime Minister, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday said that the second Covid-19 wave in the country is a "Modi-made disaster". She also criticised the way the Centre is handling the situation.

Addressing an election rally in South Dinajpur district, Mamata said: "At a time when there is scarcity in the country, vaccines and medicines are shipped to other countries. There is no injection or oxygen. The second wave is more intense. I would say this is a Modi-made disaster."

Urging people to not panic, the chief minister said the state government has funds to fight the pandemic. "The Centre has given a nod to purchase vaccines. In February, we informed the Central government that the state wanted to buy vaccines with its own funds. The Centre did not respond. But don't panic. The state has Rs 100 crore to combat the pandemic," she said.

The rapid rise of positive cases in the second wave of Covid-19 has become the Trinamool Congress supremo's tool to attack BJP. In all recent rallies, Mamata accused the saffron camp of spreading the virus in Bengal by bringing in outsiders. She raised the same issue on Wednesday.

Taking a jibe at BJP's double-engine government campaign in Bengal, Mamata said: "Our state will be run by a Bengal engine government. We will not allow Gujarat to capture our state or run it from Delhi. Bengal will rule Bengal."

The term "double-engine" used by BJP heavyweights Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah refers to governments of the same party at the Centre and in a state.

Mamata said her government is facing difficulties in setting up safe homes for asymptomatic patients or those with mild symptoms, as many establishments are occupied by the Election Commission.

Hitting out at BJP on the issue of citizenship for refugees, Mamata said she would stand as a guard against BP's attempt to drive refugees out of the state. "BJP is saying different things at different places on Citizenship (Amendment) Act and National Register of Citizens. You all are citizens of the state. So don't worry. I will act as a watchman," she said.

EC rejects request for poll clubbing

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

THE Election Commission on Wednesday turned down the request of Trinamool Congress spokesperson Derek O'Brien, who had appealed for clubbing the last three phases of Bengal elections in one go.

Citing the restrictions that have been imposed, ranging from extending the silence period to banning campaigns for a certain period, the poll panel asserted that the election schedule will remain unchanged.

Explaining why the Commission should club the last three phases, O'Brien said, in his letter, that 52 days of campaigning were availed to the political parties or candidates.

In its reply, the poll panel said the total duration of the election period was reduced to 66 days which is 11 days less than the last occasion in 2016. "As regards concerns related to pandemic, invoking its power under Articles 324 the Commission has already prohibited the campaign period 7 pm to 10 am to discourage the public gathering and extended the silence period to 72 hours before the end of the poll in each phase." Rejecting O'Brien's request, the Commission said there has to be a 14-day gap between the withdrawal of nominations and poll dates and such clubbing is not possible.

Colour relief: Red gives way to Blue flag on Army vehicles

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE flags on Army vehicles in militancy-hit Kashmir have changed from red to blue and white in an effort to address the feeling of alienation among the masses and to send a people-friendly message.

Red flag signifies danger in the militancy-hit Kashmir Valley. Besides, Army men deployed with Road Opening Parties are now carrying blue and white flags while clearing the way for convoys on different routes in the Valley. According to Army officers, road barriers in sensitive zones have also been given a new look. "These steps were taken to address the feeling of alienation among the citizens at the security checks and drills," said defence spokesperson Lt Col Emron Musavi. There is a need to understand that security checks are necessitated due to thethreat of militancy, he added.

Evidence planted in Bhima Koregaon case, American firm says

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INCRIMINATING evidence was planted on the activists involved in the Bhima Koregaon case, an investigation by a top American newspaper has revealed.

According to the Washington Post, more than 30 documents that were part of the evidence listed by the prosecution was planted on the laptop of one of the accused activist as per a new forensic analysis by Arsenal Consulting, a Massachusetts-based digital forensics firm.This is the second independent forensic report in the same case that says the evidence cited by the investigating agencies was planted.

As per the new report, 22 additional documents were delivered to the computer of the activist by the same attacker, which planted 10 documents as per the previous report.

The documents, as per the company, were placed in a hidden folder on the computer. It includes details of purported meetings of Maoist militants, discussions on fund transfers, communications between purported Maoist leaders and concerns over state crackdown.

According to the Post, the two reports by Arsenal focus on a laptop, which belongs to Rona Wilson, an activist. In February, lawyers for Wilson submitted the first report to a court in Mumbai, which is yet to decide on the plea.

According to the report, Wilson's computer was first compromised on June 13, 2016, when he was sent emails that appeared to be from fellow accused Varavara Rao, which suggested that he click on a link to download a document.

Wilson opened the document at 6.18 pm on the day, which led to the installation of the NetWire malware on his computer.

The same attacker was found to have compromised Wilson's computer multiple times from June 2016 to April 17, 2018, when Wilson's and the homes of others accused were raided in connection with the case.

The case pertains to the violent incidents which occurred on January 1, 2018 at Bhima Koregaon, near Pune during the Dalit organisations' commemoration of 200th anniversary of the victory of Koregaon Battle.

The Pune police alleged that violence was incited by the Elgaar Parishad meeting held at Pune the previous day. It was alleged that the meeting was organised by persons having nexus with banned Maoist organisations.

Maoists allege drone attack, forces reject claim

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE outlawed CPI (Maoist) on Wednesday accused the security forces of carrying out drones attacks against their cadre in the Bijapur district of Chhattisgarh, a claim denied by the forces.

"At least a dozen bombs were dropped on the rebels using drones in Bijapur district," Vikalp, the spokesperson for the Dandakaranya Special Zonal Committee of the banned outfit, said in a statement.

"This was the first airstrike on us. It happened around 3 am on April 19. Twelve bombs were dropped between Bottalanka and Plagudem villages of Bijapur. As we managed to change our locations, we suffered no loss," Vikalp said.

The Chhattisgarh police in Bastar said the Maoist charges were "totally baseless". "It's an outcome of fear and confusion in the rank and file of Maoist cadres. The security forces in Bastar operate within the legal framework with a single objective of protecting the life and property of the native population", said Sunderraj P, Inspector General of Police (Bastar zone).

The CRPF too rejected the Maoist claim as nothing more than propaganda."Such groundless allegations reflect a desperate attempt by the Maoists to garner the support of local people who are drifting away from the banned organisation," an official said.

3 ONGC employees abducted in Assam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Guwahati

THREE employees of the Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) were on Wednesday abducted by unidentified gunmen, suspected to be members of the Paresh Baruah faction of the United Liberation Front of Assam (ULFA).

The incident happened in the wee hours of Wednesday at the site of an oil rig in Assam's Sivasagar district.

The abducted employees were whisked away in an ambulance of the ONGC, which was later found abandoned near the Nimonagarh jungles close to the Assam-Nagaland border, the ONGC said in a statement.

"A complaint has been lodged by ONGC with the local police. Higher officials of the state police are at the site. Local administration has been informed about the incident and ONGC is in constant touch with the higher authorities," the statement added.

The abducted employees have been identified as Mohini Mohan Gogoi, Ritul Saikia and Alakesh Saikia. Gogoi and Ritul Saikia were working as junior technicians (production) while Alakesh Saikia is a junior engineering assistant. The police said they were conducting a probe. "We are investigating the case. We suspect the hand of the ULFA in the incident," the police said.

The incident comes just days after the ULFA released two employees of New Delhi-based oil exploration firm Quippo Oil and Gas Infrastructure.

The ONGC has been exploring and producing oil and gas in Assam since the 1960s.

Double whammy for Devendra Fadnavis

The former Maharashtra chief minister Devendra Fadnavis courted criticism twice this week. First, when he rushed with his party leaders to Vile Parle police station to defend the owner of a pharma firm who was detained by the police on suspicion of hoarding 60,000 vials of Remdesivir. Many expressed displeasure over him sitting in a police station and threatening the cops when they were questioning a suspect. Another setback was when his nephew, Tanmay Fadnavis, who is under 45 years of age, claimed on social media that he got vaccinated. Devendra Fadnavis distanced himself from this controversy saying Tanmay is his distant relative.

MVA government targeting the Centre to survive

Maharashtra's Maha Vikas Aghadi leaders seem to have reached a conclusion that if they want the state's three-party government to survive, then the key is to step up the fight with the Centre. With the pandemic raging, leaders of the ruling alliance have accused the Centre of limiting the supply of vaccines to hard-hit Maharashtra. Even the supply of Remdesivir was limited, they claim. The state administration has tried its best to bring its grievances to the notice of the Centre, but there have been no positive results. Therefore, the Maha Vikas Aghadi ministers have decided to step up their attack on the Centre on every issue as well as every injustice—perceived or real

NCP leader Nawab Malik rattles the BJP

The Nationalist Congress Party minister and chief spokesperson Nawab Malik rattled the entire machinery of the state BJP when he accused the Centre of trying to cut off Remdesivir supply to Maharashtra. He claimed that the government had asked the makers of the drug not to supply it to the state. The BJP state president held a meeting with governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari, during which he demanded that Nawab Malik be sacked from the Uddhav Thackeray-led government. The BJP has called for the registration of an FIR against him for "spreading panic through false information".

Thackerays fight to take credit

Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi asking him to allow a Mumbai-based research institute, Haffkine, to produce Covaxin doses. NCP chief Raj Thackeray had also shot off a letter to Narendra Modi asking the same. Now, as the Centre has granted approval to Haffkine to produce the vaccine, both Thackerays have rushed to claim the credit. Both thanked the prime minister. The same thing happened when the Centre opened up Covid vaccinations for all adults—many Maharashtra politicians rushed to claim the credit.

US cop found guilty on all charges of killing George Floyd

Derek Chauvin found guilty of murder, manslaughter ■ People celebrate outside court, in Floyd's hometown ■ Prez Joe Biden, VP Kamala Harris hail verdict

WASHINGTON

A US grand jury has found former Minneapolis police officer Derek Chauvin guilty on all three charges he faced over the custodial death of African-American George Floyd last year, an incident that had sparked worldwide protests against racism and excessive use of force by police.

The 12 jurors found Chauvin, 45, guilty of unintentional second-degree murder, third-degree murder and second-degree manslaughter in one of the most closely-watched cases across the globe.

Derek Chauvin

Chauvin, who had pleaded not guilty, faces up to 40 years in prison, according to US media reports.

George Floyd

He was filmed kneeling on Floyd's neck on the pavement of a south Minneapolis intersection for more than nine minutes during the latter's arrest on May 25 last year after a convenience store clerk in Minneapolis alleged Floyd tried to pass a counterfeit $20 bill. "I can't breathe. I can't breathe," were Floyd's last words.

After the verdict, Chauvin was transferred to the Minnesota Correctional Facility.

Judge Peter Cahill said sentencing is expected in eight weeks. The City of Minneapolis last month settled a wrongful death lawsuit with Floyd's family for $27 million.

The verdict prompted celebratory scenes outside the court and in Floyd's home town. The Floyd family and their lawyer Ben Crump released a statement following the Chauvin's conviction, saying the verdict goes far beyond this city and has significant implications for the country and even the world.

"Justice for Black America is justice for all of America. This case is a turning point in American history for accountability of law enforcement and sends a clear message we hope is heard clearly in every city and every state," the statement said.

The statement also demanded that the other three officers who played a role in Floyd's death be held accountable.

President Joe Biden said it was murder in daylight and the incident ripped the blinders off for the whole world to see the systemic racism in the country. In an address to the nation soon after the verdict, Vice President Kamala Harris said black Americans and black men in particular have been treated throughout the course of history as less than human.

"Today we feel a sigh of relief. Still, it cannot take away the pain...we still have work to do," said Harris, who urged lawmakers to pass the George Floyd bill aimed at reforming policing in the US. PTI

Silence, then cheers at George Floyd Square

Minneapolis: There was quiet, just for a moment, as hundreds of people standing in the intersection at 38th Street and Chicago Avenue crowded in to listen to the news. The verdict was announced and thunderous cheering filled the place where George Floyd was pinned beneath a police officer's knee nearly a year ago. In the place now known as George Floyd Square, a spot that millions around the world have seen in videos shot by bystanders during Floyd's arrest, there was relief. Some 300 people gathered . More and more people streamed in. There were occasional chants of 'Say his name! George Floyd!' As the sun set over the square, Floyd's aunt, Angela Harrelson, spoke to the crowd. "When you came out to protect that site, to keep it sacred, you guys created a domino effect. I don't know all of your names, but I see you. I hear you. I appreciate you, and won't forget you," she said. AP

COLUMBUS POLICE FATALLY SHOOT BLACK TEEN GIRL SWINGING KNIFE

Columbus: A knife-wielding Black teenage girl was shot dead by police in Columbus, Ohio, within minutes of the verdict in Floyd's killing. Officials with the Columbus Division of Police released footage of the shooting Tuesday night just hours after it happened. The girl was identified as Ma'Khia Bryant, 16, according to Franklin County Children Services, which said she was under the care of the agency at the time of her death. AP

Your dad did change world, Biden tells Floyd's daughter

WASHINGTON

US PRESIDENT Joe Biden on Tuesday narrated a conversation he had with George's Floyd's seven-year-old daughter in which he affirmed that her father's murder had sparked global change.

Biden said he met Gianna Floyd at her father's funeral in June last year and "told her how brave I thought she was." "I knelt down and held her hand, I said 'Daddy is looking down at you so proud'," said Biden. "She said to me then... 'Daddy changed the world'."

Biden said when he spoke with Gianna again on Tuesday, he told her 'Daddy did change the world. Let that be his legacy: a legacy of peace, not violence' of justice."

"This is the time for this country to come together, to unite as Americans. There can never be any safe harbour for hate in America," he said.

Speaking from the White House, Biden described the verdict a rare but a giant step forward in the march towards justice in America. He also called it an indictment on unjust policing. PTI

INDIAN-AMERICAN LAWMAKERS, GROUPS WELCOME VERDICT

Washington: Several Indian-American lawmakers and groups have welcomed the verdict. "Justice was served today, but convicting Derek Chauvin won't fix the system that continues to terrorise and kill Black lives. It won't bring back Floyd," Congresswoman Pramila Jayapal said. "This verdict ... doesn't change the fact that Floyd should be alive today. We now must pass the Justice in Policing Act, said Congressman Ro Khanna. The South Asian Bar Association of North America applauded the jury verdict. "While this verdict was a step in the right direction, it is only one step in a broader fight against the systemic racism within our country," SABA said. PTI

This is the way the system works. I accept the verdict and leave it up to the court —Lindsey Graham, GOP senator

The verdict is a pivotal moment for America. It's something this country has needed for a long time —Brandon Williams, Floyd's nephew

200 million vaccinated: China

BEIJING

AROUND 200 million Chinese, or 14.29 per cent of the population, have been vaccinated for COVID-19 so far, with an emphasis on front-line workers, university students and people living in border areas, a health official said Wednesday.

China is ramping up vaccination efforts after a slow start, prompted in part by the virtual elimination of domestic transmission. Just two local cases were reported on Wednesday, both in the city of Ruili, which borders on Myanmar.

Center of Disease Control official Cui Gang told a news conference that key areas and members of the population were being prioritized for vaccines. China has approved five domestically produced vaccines and exported millions of doses, although some scientists believe they provide less protection that those by Pfizer, Moderna and AstraZeneca.

The Chinese vaccines have an efficacy range of 50.7 per cent to 79.3 per cent, based on company data, lower than their foreign peers but still effective.

China is now giving millions of shots a day and a top government doctor, Zhong Nanshan, has announced a goal of vaccinating 560 million of the country's 1.4 billion people by mid-June.

China locked down the city of Wuhan for more than two months starting in January 2020 after the coronavirus was first detected in late 2019. Wuhan became known as the epicenter of the pandemic, although Beijing has suggested the virus might have been circulating earlier and possibly brought to China from abroad.

Since then, China has controlled the virus through stringent border controls and quick lockdowns whenever new outbreaks crop up. Mask wearing indoors remains almost universal and health tracing applications must be shown at most shops, offices and public buildings. AP

Pak govt may close down major cities: Minister

Islamabad: The chief of Pakistan's anti-coronavirus body warned on Wednesday that major cities of the country may be closed down if precautionary measures to contain the spread of Covid-19 are not taken seriously. Minister for Planning Asad Umar's remarks came after 148 people died in the last 24 hours due to the worsening pandemic situation. Umar, after chairing the meeting of the National Command and Operation Centre, which is spearheading a drive to combat the pandemic, said the situation was not good as people were not following precautionary steps. "We reviewed the pandemic situation, which is bad. We have taken decisions to impose more curbs which would be announced on Friday," Umar said. PTI

JAPAN PREPARES FOR 3RD VIRUS EMERGENCY IN TOKYO, OSAKA AREAS

Tokyo: Japan's government is preparing to announce a third state of emergency in Tokyo and the western metropolitan area around Osaka following requests from local leaders who say current measures are failing to curb a rapid rise in Covid infections. Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga and key ministers met late Wednesday to discuss details before deciding on a state of emergency for Tokyo, Osaka and neighbouring Kyoto and Hyogo expected later this week. 'Indonesian submarine with 53 on board missing'

JAKARTA

INDONESIA'S navy is searching for a submarine that went missing north of the resort island of Bali with 53 people on board, the military said Wednesday. Military chief Hadi Tjahjanto said the KRI Nanggala 402 was participating in a training exercise when it missed a scheduled reporting call. The submarine is believed to have disappeared in waters about 60 miles (95 kilometers) north of Bali, he said.

Tjahjanto said the navy has deployed scores of ships to search the area, including a hydrographic survey ship, and has asked for help from Singapore and Australia, which have submarine rescue vessels.

The Defense Ministry said the submarine lost contact after being granted clearance to dive. It said a helicopter later spotted an oil slick near the dive's starting position. The submarine was carrying 49 crew members, its commander and three gunners, it said.

The navy said an electrical failure may have occurred during the dive, causing the submarine to lose control and become unable to undertake emergency procedures that would have allowed it to resurface. It said it believes the submarine sank to a depth of 600-700 meters (2,000-2,300 feet). The German-built submarine, which has been in service in Indonesia since 1981, was rehearsing for a missile-firing exercise that was to take place on Thursday. Tjahjanto and other military leaders were to attend.

Indonesia currently has a fleet of five submarines and plans to operate at least eight by 2024. AP

Centre to continue austerity drive during Q1

Officials say that while the government is more prepared than last year, the second wave is worse than anticipated

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

AS the second Covid-19 wave threatens to derail the economy, the Government is likely to continue with its austerity drive until the end of the first quarter in June in an effort to manage the Centre's expenditure and finances better.

According to the sources in the finance ministry, since the second wave has resulted in movement curbs and other restrictions in several pockets of the country, the ministry is monitoring the use of funds and has advised that funding should be released only for projects which are important and after due approval.

"We are closely monitoring the situation. While we will not hold funds for important projects, at this stage, every penny has to be spent well. This will be not be like last year, but with the second wave, we will be more prudent till June-end. We hope that the situation will start improving after that," a senior official from the finance ministry told this publication.

The centre had issued a detailed list on expenditure management in an effort to save resources during the first outbreak last year too.

Cash management in DoE control

Earlier this month, the Finance Ministry revamped the Public Financial Management System, putting the cash management system of the Government of India under the direct control of expenditure department

According to sources, while the government has directed that healthcare expenditure should be the top priority, for other projects, funds will be released depending of the level of project progress.

There is also some buzz around demands for a second relief package from the government, but officials say that this would be taken up only when required. "This year we are placed better. So, a relief package will be done only when required and will be directed to the sectors which need it the most. I do not see it coming immediately. Also, the Centre is taking decisions on a daily basis and is doing what is needful," the official added.

While admitting that the second wave has been worse than anticipated, officials in the finance ministry and the Prime Minister's Economic Advisory Council feel that the situation is likely to start improving post the month of June.

"The Centre is taking measures, but our internal assessment is that it may take at least two months for the situation be be back to normal. We hope that from July onwards, there will be enough vaccines in the market and a sizeable population will be vaccinated. Till then we are monitoring the situation," the official added.

Limited oxygen supply to hit small businesses

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre's decision to prohibit oxygen supply for industrial purposes in order to take care of treatment requirements for the rapidly rising number of Covid-19 patients will have an adverse impact on small businesses in at least five sectors, according to a report from Crisil.

The domestic ratings agency, however, said that the "hiccup" seems temporary for now, and that it would only lead to a limited decline in revenue. "The disruption in the supply of oxygen for industrial use would temporarily impact the revenues of small and mid-sized companies into metal fabrication, automotive components, shipbreaking, paper, and engineering," said Gautam Shahi, Director, CRISIL Ratings, "These typically do not have captive oxygen plants and source their requirement through merchant suppliers for operations such as welding, cutting, cleaning and chemical processes."

Demand for medical oxygen is estimated to have rocketed five-fold in the second week of April compared to pre-pandemic levels as Covid-19 infections took off. As a result, the central government has barred from Thursday the industrial use of oxygen, except in nine designated sectors, in an attempt to divert supplies for medical use.

The consequent higher supply of medical oxygen will save lives, but will have a bearing on select sectors. The impact will be greater for companies in Maharashtra, Rajasthan, New Delhi, Madhya Pradesh, and Gujarat, where medical oxygen demand has increased multiple times due to high Covid-19 case loads, the agency added.

Oxygen is consumed by industry in two ways—onsite, and merchant sales. Onsite is through captive plants for process-driven industries (including the nine sectors exempted by the government), which account for 75-80 per cent of oxygen manufactured in India. The balance is supplied through merchant sales (called liquid oxygen) through cryogenic tanks and cylinders. The healthcare sector consumes about 10 per cent of merchant sales, and others the rest.

Setting up an air-separation plant or importing oxygen requires significant lead time and involves relatively prohibitive cost. That leaves them more vulnerable compared with larger peers, Crisil noted, adding that a prolonged and intense second wave that curtails oxygen supply to industries for a longer period than expected will exacerbate downside risk in affected sectors.

PRIVATE SECTOR STEPS IN

With several states flagging an oxygen shortage as Covid-19 cases surge, the Tata Group on Tuesday said that it is importing 24 cryogenic containers to transport liquid oxygen and help ease the shortage. Other large manufacturers including Reliance Industries, JSPL, SAIL, JSW Group, Vedanta, and AMNS India are also ramping up production of liquid medical oxygen. According to the steel ministry, 28 oxygen plants located in the steel facility of both public and private sectors are supplying about 1,500 tonnes of medical oxygen every day

Firms step up supply after signs of panic buying

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WITH the second Covid-19 wave forcing people to begin isolating at home, consumer goods companies are seeing a surge in pantry stocking and at-home consumption demand. While online delivery platforms like BigBasket and Grofers said they are better prepared to cater to rising demand this time around, fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) firms such as ITC, Parle Products, Marico, and Dabur said they are prioritising stock replenishments at neighbourhood grocery stores.

"The second wave has led to a huge surge in orders across all cities on our platform. In view of the pandemic situation, we had worked on increasing our capacity and building infrastructure throughout last year and also in early 2021. As a result, we are making deliveries in all our operating cities, albeit with extended timelines in some due to unexpectedly high demand and movement restrictions," said a BigBasket spokesperson.

In Maharashtra, which introduced restrictions earlier this month, demand is currently almost 40 per cent higher, and overall, BigBasket is seeing 10-15 per cent more orders now compared to last year.

Meanwhile, Albinder Dhindsa, CEO, Grofers, said in a tweet that more than six lakh carts had been waiting to check out on the platform if the PM had announced a nationwide lockdown.

The company has also said that it has seen a spike in demand in Maharashtra and Delhi after strict curbs. As for FMCG firms, Britannia Industries CEO Varun Berry said that it has stocked its distributors adequately to meet any potential demand surge.

Others including Parle, Marico, and Dabur have also echoed similar sentiments. These companies said that they have stepped up the frequency of supplies to the market and distributors, and that they were better equipped to tackle demand for essential products. An ITC spokesperson said that the company now has a fully operational ITC e-store in six metro cities which could meet requirements directly.

Hero joins hands with Taiwan's Gogoro to develop EVs for India

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

HERO MotoCorp has formed a partnership with Taiwan's Gogoro Inc to develop electric vehicles for the Indian market. The two companies will establish a battery swapping joint venture to bring Gogoro's battery swapping platform to India and will collaborate on EV development to bring Hero-branded, powered-by-Gogoro Network vehicles to the domestic auto market.

With this partnership, Hero MotorCorp will make its first direct entry into the EV space, which at present is dominated by another Hero Group company, Hero Electric, and Hero MotoCorp-backed start-up Ather Energy. Hero's main rivals, Bajaj Auto and TVS Motor Company, also already have a small presence in this fast growing category.

We bring Hero's leadership in two-wheelers, our Global scale and innovation powerhouse, with the leadership of Gogoro in the Swapping business model

Pawan Munjal, Chairman, Hero MotoCorp

India's two-wheeler EV market saw a 1.6-fold increase in FY21, from 24,839 units sold in FY20 to 40,837 in FY21. Experts believe EVs may account for 25-30 per cent of total two-wheeler sales by 2030.

"Today marks another major milestone in our journey, as we bring Hero's leadership in two-wheelers, our Global scale and innovation powerhouse, with the leadership of Gogoro in Swapping business model, as they have demonstrated over the years in Taiwan and rest of the world," said Pawan Munjal, Chairman and CEO, Hero MotoCorp, said.

In Taiwan, Gogoro now has more than 375,000 riders and 2,000 battery swapping/charging stations, which handle 265,000 swaps a day.

"With more than 225 million gas-powered two wheel vehicles in India, the need for smart and sustainable electric transportation and refueling is vital," said Horace Luke, Founder & CEO, Gogoro Inc.

FM asks industry to have faith in government

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCE minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday asked India Inc to have faith in the government and assured them that they were taking all required measures to help the industry and people as Covid-19 cases surge amidst a second wave.

"During this ongoing second wave, look at the steps which we have taken. Revival will continue to happen. Sentiments cannot fall so rapidly. Our appeal to the industry is to have trust in the government," Sitharaman said addressing a seminar organised by the Merchants' Chamber of Commerce and Industry in Kolkata. Sitharaman added that the central government has disbursed ₹4,650 crore to the Serum Institute of India and Bharat Biotech for vaccine production up to July, and that these vaccines will be available for free in government hospitals.

"We hope the second wave can be stifled through micro-containment zones as the government is not in favour of an all-across lockdown," she said. The finance minister also held several other meetings with industry leaders, noting that, unlike last time, we now have important tools to deal with the pandemic such as vaccines and medicines. On meeting the phenomenal increase in demand for medical oxygen, Sitharaman assured seamless supply to states.

Measures that the government is taking include importing medical oxygen, round-the-clock working of the oxygen filling stations, and allowing containers used for nitrogen and argon to be used for oxygen. The finance minister also gave details on initiatives to help ramp up the production capacity for Remdesivir from 36 lakh vials per month to 78 lakh vials.

ROAD TRANSPORTERS LOSING ₹1K CR A DAY: AIMTC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDUSTRY association All India Motor Transport Congress (AIMTC), representing India's road transport community, said on Wednesday that the sector is taking losses of around ₹1,000 crore a day due to rapidly expanding lockdowns and curfews. These losses could spike further, it added, if specific relief measures are not taken to mitigate the situation.

On April 12, when restrictions had been re-imposed in Maharashtra, AIMTC's research unit had assessed daily losses to the segment of about ₹315 crore per day. The expansion of similar measures across India, despite the absense of a nation-wide lockdown, has more than tripled this in just over a week. According to a fresh assessment, daily losses to the transport industry have mounted to about ₹1,000 crore per day and are continuing to rise in tandem with the duration and intensity of lockdowns.

States such as Delhi, Punjab, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Karnataka and others have also imposed strict restrictions on the movement of non-essential goods—a move that has resulted in demand for vehicles going down by about 50 per cent. In order to sort out the problem and offer relief, AIMTC sought proactive steps from the government such as a moratorium on equated-monthly instalment (EMI) payments, tax and insurance waivers, and an extension in e-way bill validity.

The lockdown and night curfews extended to other states (after Maharashtra first imposed it), has disrupted the business, said AIMTC, going on to note that financial delinquencies have hit micro loans, MSMEs, and the commercial vehicles' financing segment. "This is going to further deepen the crisis," it warned, adding that immediate, prudent, and proactive steps, therefore, must be taken.

Sector's financial health to worsen

AIMTC's research unit has predicted a deterioration of the financial situation where payments are not forthcoming. This is due to low consumption, and in cases where demand is high, the fact that manufacturers are unable to realise proceeds from such sales

97% of TikTok's userbase in India captured by local players

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

AFTER popular Chinese short-video app TikTok was banned by the Indian government in June last year, home-grown players in the segment have been able to acquire nearly 97 per cent of the platform's daily active userbase (DAUs), a report released by consulting firm Redseer said on Wednesday. Bytedance-owned TikTok, which counted India as one of its biggest markets globally, had earlier told the courts that the Indian government has frozen its accounts and that it remains unclear on whether it will be revived in India. The country had accounted for 30 per cent (more than 600 million downloads) of TikTok's global downloads, according to data from Sensor Tower.

However, according to Redseer, home-grown platforms such as Josh, Roposo, MxTaka Tak, and Moj have been able to onboard another 30-35 per cent of TikTok's userbase. Last year, these platforms had taken over nearly 65-70 per cent of TikTok users, essentially bringing back 97 per cent of TikTok's daily active users (DAUs) to the segment now as a result of aggressive marketing and user acquisition by platforms.

The report added that the time spent on short content platforms has gradually increased and that the new user-base addition was led by India's tier-2 cities as platforms become more focused on vernacular content. Nearly, 60-62 per cent of short form users are from Tier 2+ cities.

The agency also notes that users prefer home-grown platforms, with 75 per cent unwilling to switch to Chinese platforms even in the absence of a ban. "In less than one year post the TikTok ban, Indian platforms have shown a strong V-shaped recovery, bouncing back to 100 per cent of pre-ban daily user base. This shows how platforms were able to design the product, execute their plans and market it aggressively in a very short period of time," Ujjwal Chadhury of RedSeer.

COMPETITION MODE & TRAVELLING AFFECTED

Given the pandemic situation, Indian athletes, most of them Olympic bound, have again had to reevaluate their goals

AYANTAN CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

AS the second Covid-19 wave sweeps across the country, India's major Olympic sports are all suffering. Quite a few Olympic-bound athletes even tested positive at various Sports Authority of India centres. Even India's travel plans to compete in various international tournaments and competitions at home starting from next month is in jeopardy.

The United Kingdom has put India in the travel red list which means the FIH Hockey Pro League matches between India and Great Britain scheduled for May 8-9 in London stand postponed. "FIH, Hockey India and Great Britain Hockey are monitoring the evolution of the situation in the hope of rearranging these matches at a later date," a FIH release said.

In the case of Indian rowing team, there is uncertainty over participation. Japan is on the verge of a lockdown but the Asian and Oceania Continental Olympic qualifiers is set to begin from May 5. Apart from testing requirements, the lockdown in Delhi has affected visa processing too. "Because of the situation in Delhi, our papers are stuck with the travel agents. Hopefully, by tomorrow (Thursday) we will be able to retrieve it and solve the problem. That is not all as if the visa process is successfully negotiated, we hope flights will remain open," a top rowing official averred. Then there is waiting period for Covid testing results. Even quarantine norms have changed. "We have to download an app before our arrival apart from the mandatory negative RT-PCR report. They have also asked for extra reports, the kinds of which I don't know whether the labs can process right now keeping in mind that both our teams are in different states which are under lockdown (women's team in Bhopal, men's team in Pune). The country's worsening condition will compound matters," said an official. "But they can't afford to stop us because it is a qualifying tournament. Hopefully, the event will go ahead as planned without a glitch."

Shooting is one of India's brightest medal prospects and the NRAI's plan is to send a contingent to Croatia to participate in the European Championships in the MQS category following which they are set to travel to Baku. However, with shooters who are part of the camp testing positive, the federation is adopting a wait-and-watch policy as of now.

"We are taking one day at a time. The situation is quite grim and we are monitoring all aspects on an hourly basis. If the condition does not improve, we will have discussions with the government and SAI, and if they advise us against travelling, we will not be sending the team," a NRAI official said.

Quarantine rules a concern

If travel issues are not enough, quarantine rules might be another hurdle. The recurve archery team that reached Guatemala for the first World Cup stage after crisscrossing the globe will have less than a month ahead of Stage II in Switzerland. A meeting will take place to assess India and the host nation's quarantine norms.

Indians to get break after WTC final in UK

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

THE new restrictions placed by the UK government on Indians because of the recent surge in Covid-19 numbers means Virat Kohli & Co may have to wait until the end of the World Test Championship to step outside bubble life. It is understood that before the team departs to Southampton, in case any one steps out of the bio-bubble, they will have to undergo isolation before taking the flight, for which the BCCI is working on the details.

India are scheduled to face New Zealand in the WTC final starting in Southampton from June 18. Elite athletes travelling to the UK can undergo a 10-day isolation anywhere in the country and train at the same time. However with UK government placing India under the travel red-list, Indian players may not be able to avail the privilege if the situation doesn't change. Like any UK citizen travelling from India, they will have to undergo 10-day isolation in a government-approved hotel, a period in which they cannot train.

It is understood that the BCCI and England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) are working out if any relaxations can be made, especially if they fly from one bio-bubble to another, the Rose Bowl in this case, which has a hotel in the stadium premises. For this to happen, those players who will be picked for the WTC final, will have to step into a new bubble immediately after their IPL campaign ends.

The development is the last thing the Indian team wanted as there are concerns about the mental well-being of the players as they have been living in a bio-bubble environment since the 2020 edition of the IPL. Only those who were not picked for the limited-over assignments against England have had the luxury of stepping out.

With the five-match Test series against England starting on August 4, the team managment wants to give a two-week break to the players after the WTC final. However, the current restrictions, rule out the possibility of coming back home. Instead, the players are likely to spend this break time in UK itself where they will be given freedom to make their own plans. It is understood the BCCI is working out if the players can take their family.

Eight pugilists in youth final

ENS/AGENCIES @ New Delhi

EIGHT Indian boxers, including seven women, stormed into the finals of the Youth World Championships in Kielce, Poland, an unprecedented achievement for the country in the marquee age group event.

Apart from the eight finalists, three others settled for bronze medals at the tournament, a performance which betters the 10 medals that India won in its best ever show not too long back in the 2018 edition in Hungary.

The ones who made the finals, to be held on Thursday after a rest day on Wednesday, were Gitika (48 kg), Babyrojisana Chanu (51 kg), Vinka (60 kg), Arundhati Choudhary (69 kg), Poonam (57 kg), Thokchom Sanamachu Chanu (75 kg) and Alfiya Pathan (+81 kg) among women.

"The girls have exceeded my expectations, they have been excellent. Hopefully, we will go on to win gold," Bhaskar Bhatt, India women's youth coach, said.

Among men, only Sachin (56kg) made the summit clash while three others signed off with bronze medals.

Pools open for training alone

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government finally gave ears to the request of Karnataka Swimming Association (KSA), allowing pools to be opened for training purposes in their new set of guidelines released on Tuesday evening.

It has remained shut amidst the surge in Covid-19 cases from earlier this month, disrupting training for top competitive swimmers in Bengaluru primarily. However, the state body has made it clear that only affiliated pools of the KSA, where competitive swimmers train, will be opened with strict protocols in place. "Only KSA affiliated units will be allowed to open. It will be for training purposes," a KSA official said.

"Karnataka is one of the best in the country when it comes to swimming...we requested the government so much, regarding competitive swimming, that it should be opened, and they have now given permission, which is very important for the swimming fraternity."

The national camp for elite swimmers was held in Bengaluru days before the restrictions were announced.

Two veterinarians in Chile are under investigation for allegedly giving dog coronavirus vaccines to at least 75 people in the months before human jabs arrived in the country, health officials said. The pair stand accused of having administered vaccines developed against canine coronavirus, which is not the same as the SARS-CoV-2 virus responsible for the global human pandemic, to people in the city of Calama.

Too little sleep after age 50 raises dementia risk

Sleeping six hours or less per night in your 50s and 60s is associated with an increased risk of dementia, according to a new study of nearly 8,000 British adults followed for more than 25 years

CHICKEN & EGG SCENARIO

Disrupted sleep is a common symptom of dementia, but a growing body of research suggests sleep patterns before the onset of dementia could also contribute to the development of the disease

So this has raised the "chicken or egg question of which comes first, the sleep problem or the pathology," Dr. Erik Musiek, co-director of the Center on Biological Rhythms and Sleep at Washington University and who wasn't part of the research, told The New York Times

"I don't know that this study necessarily seals the deal, but it gets closer because it has a lot of people who were relatively young. There's a decent chance that they are capturing people in middle age before they have Alzheimer's disease pathology or plaques and tangles in their brain," he told the newspaper

Correlation, not causation

Scientists said that while the research, which was based on data from a long-running survey, could not prove cause and effect, it did draw a link between sleep and dementia as people age

7 HOURS LESS THAN

The study, published in Nature Communications, showed a higher risk of dementia in those sleeping six or fewer hours per night at the ages of 50 or 60, compared to those who have a "normal" seven hours in bed

30% more risk

of dementia in those with consistently short sleeping patterns from the age of 50 to 70, irrespective of cardiometabolic or mental health issues, which are known risk factors for dementia

What the numbers say

The study authors from the French national health-research institute INSERM analysed data from a long term study by University College London, which has followed the health of 7,959 British individuals since 1985

3,900 of the individuals wore watch devices overnight to confirm their estimates. All of the participants self-reported their sleep duration

Many of us have experienced a bad night's sleep and probably know that it can have an impact on our memory and thinking in the short term, but an intriguing question is whether long-term sleep patterns can affect our risk of dementia

Sara Imarisio, Head of Research at Alzheimer's Research UK, told Science Media Centre

It's always difficult to know what to conclude from these kinds of studies. Insomniacs — who probably don't need something else to ruminate about in bed — shouldn't worry that they are heading for dementia unless they get off to sleep immediately

Robert Howard, a professor of old age psychiatry at University College London, wrote in comments about the study in Nature Communications

43.8 MILLION

people around the world have dementia, as per 2016 data

Women 27 million

Men 16.8 million

5th

leading cause of death globally in 2016, accounting for 2.4 million deaths

Tentative advice

While there is no magic bullet to prevent dementia, evidence suggests that not smoking, drinking in moderation, staying mentally and physically active and eating well are among the things that can help to keep our brains healthy as we age, Sara Imarisio said

Big climate day as govts, banks set new targets

EU agrees to cut carbon emissions by 55% by 2030; US to announce similar pledge

CLIMATE

THE European Union on Wednesday reached a tentative deal intended to make the 27-nation bloc carbon-neutral by 2050. The agreement commits the EU to an intermediate target of cutting greenhouse gas emissions by at least 55% by 2030 compared with 1990 levels.

The deal, reached before dawn after 14 hours of negotiations, sets about putting parts of the 2016 Paris climate accord into binding legislative effect across a range of sectors, underpinning the European Union's ambition to lead the world on the issue.

But top environmental groups Greenpeace and WWF immediately slammed the agreement as insufficient to limit global warming to the 1.5-degree-Celsius threshold enshrined in the Paris accord.

Greenpeace noted that Britain, a former EU member, vowed this week to slash carbon emissions by 78% by 2035.

US President Joe Biden will pledge to cut US greenhouse gas emissions at least in half by 2030 as he convenes a virtual climate summit with 40 world leaders, according to three people with knowledge of the White House plans.

The 50% target would nearly double America's previous commitment and help the Biden administration prod other countries for ambitious emissions cuts as well. The proposal would require dramatic changes in the power and transportation sectors, including significant increases in renewable energy such as wind and solar power and steep cuts in emissions from fossil fuels such as coal and oil.

The nonbinding but symbolically important pledge is a key element of the two-day summit, which begins Thursday when world leaders gather online to share strategies to combat climate change. China announced on Wednesday that President Xi Jinping will participate. China is the world's largest carbon polluter, with the US second.

Scientists, environmental groups and even business leaders had called on Biden to set a target that would cut US greenhouse gas emissions by at least 50% below 2005 levels by 2030.

Also on Wednesday, a group of 43 international banks including sector heavyweights have joined a UN-convened pact to reach carbon neutrality by 2050, the world body said.

Bringing together household names like Barclays, HSBC, Bank of America, Deutsche Bank and BNP Paribas, the "Net Zero Banking Alliance" members vowed to make greenhouse gas emissions from their lending and investment portfolios "align with pathways to net-zero by 2050 or sooner" with regularly updated intermediate goals.

The move, however, failed to impress climate campaigners.

New rules for reining in AI set privacy standard

TECHNOLOGY

EUROPEAN Union officials unveiled proposals Wednesday for reining in high-risk uses of artificial intelligence such as live facial scanning that could threaten people's safety or rights.

The draft regulations from the EU's executive commission include rules on the use of the rapidly expanding technology in systems that filter out school, job or loan applicants. They also would ban artificial intelligence outright in a few cases considered too risky, such as "social scoring" systems that judge people based on their behavior and physical traits.

The ambitious proposals are the 27-nation bloc's latest move to maintain its role as the world's standard-bearer for tech regulation, putting it ahead of the world's two big tech superpowers, the US and China. EU officials say they are taking a "risk-based approach" as they try to balance the need to protect rights such as data privacy against the need for innovation.

"With these landmark rules, the EU is spearheading the development of new global norms to make sure AI can be trusted," Margrethe Vestager, the European Commission's executive vice president for the digital age, said in a statement. "By setting the standards, we can pave the way for to ethical technology worldwide and ensure that the EU remains competitive along the way."

The proposals also include a prohibition in principle on controversial "remote biometric identification," such as the use of live facial recognition to pick people out of crowds in real time, because "there is no room for mass surveillance in our society," Vestager said in a media briefing.

There will, however, be an exception only for narrowly defined law enforcement purposes such as searching for a missing child or a wanted person or preventing a terror attack or threat.

But some EU lawmakers and digital rights group called for the carve-out to be removed over fears it could be used to justify widespread future use of the intrusive technology.

All-in-one coronavirus test can track mutations

RESEARCH

MANSFIELD: Researchers from King Abdullah University of Science and Technology have developed a Covid-19 testing strategy that can streamline the process of identifying cases, tracking variants and detecting co-infecting viruses.

The new test takes advantage of a recent genetic method (called recombinase polymerase amplification) and a next-generation portable sequencer to quickly detect the presence of viral sequences and provide read-outs -- in up to 96 patient samples at a time.

The test is designed to decode five segments of the SARS-CoV-2 genome, each chosen to help guide variant tracking. It also incorporated assays for three common respiratory viruses that can cause symptoms similar to Covid-19.

The team validated the technique – termed NIRVANA -- using nose and throat swabs from people suspected of having SARS-CoV-2 infection. They also tested wastewater samples collected from municipal sewage at KAUST to show how the method could allow for population-level surveillance of SARS-CoV-2 and other viruses.

Flight to ISS postponed

SPACE

A crewed SpaceX mission to the International Space Station has been postponed by a day due to concerns over the weather, NASA said on Wednesday. The flight had been scheduled for Thursday but because of an unfavorable weather forecast along the flight path it will now be set for 15:19 IST Friday. A SpaceX rocket is to carry four astronauts to the ISS in the second routine mission since the United States resumed crewed space flight, and the first with a European. Elon Musk's SpaceX has established itself as NASA's favored transportation provider as the agency waits on Boeing's troubled Starliner to carry out key tests.

PALAEONTOLOGY

Ferocious tyrannosaur dinosaurs may not have been solitary predators as long envisioned, but more like social carnivores such as wolves. Palaeontologists developed the theory while studying a mass tyrannosaur death site found seven years ago in the Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument in southern Utah. Using geochemical analysis of the bones and rock, researchers with the University of Arkansas determined that the dinosaurs died and were buried in the same place and were not the result of fossils washing in from multiple areas. This is the third mass tyrannosaur grave site that's been found in North America.

Oz turns to H_2, carbon capture

CLIMATE

Australia's prime minister has proposed spending an extra 539 million Australian dollars ($417 million) on hydrogen and carbon sequestration projects, seeking to burnish his government's green credentials ahead of a climate summit to be hosted by President Joe Biden. The money to be spent on building new hydrogen-producing hubs and carbon capture technologies would create more than 2,500 jobs while reducing Australia's greenhouse gas emissions, Prime Minister Scott Morrison said on Wednesday. A little over half the money would be spent on increasing the number of hydrogen-producing hubs in regional Australia from one to five. A hub is a region where hydrogen producers, users and exporters are located together. The government wants Australia to become a major global hydrogen supplier by 2030, aiming to reduce production costs to less than AU$2 ($1.54) a kilogram.

NEW DOCUMENTARY

Little known story of Titanic's Chinese survivors surfaces

HISTORY

SHANGHAI: A new documentary film has revealed the "completely unknown" story of six Chinese men who survived the sinking of the Titanic and adds a new chapter to the history of the world's most famous ship.

With Oscar-winning director James Cameron as executive producer, The Six has earned glowing reviews in China and at one point trended on the country's Twitter-like Weibo after its release on Friday.

Director Arthur Jones hopes it will have the same impact when it is screened overseas and finally dispel myths that have endured for more than a century.

For the Briton and lead researcher Steven Schwankert, The Six gives a voice, life and faces to a small band of Chinese men who were among about 700 people to survive the Titanic's sinking in 1912.

Jones said that a painstaking project stretched over several countries and years began as little more than a joke between the long-time friends, both of whom are based in China.

"Steven came to me and said that we should do the Chinese

Luo Tong, producer of The Six, a documentary about the Titanic's Chinese survivors | AFP

Titanic story with the Chinese guys who were on the Titanic," Jones, 47, told AFP at his studio in Shanghai.

"I thought he was joking because I thought it was just one of those things that we would laugh about.

"I looked it up, and it was true. But initially my thought was: I don't know if the world needs another Titanic film or another Titanic documentary." Jones said they knew they were onto something when they mentioned it to Chinese friends.

"They were just amazed that there's this completely unknown story from Titanic, it just seemed an extraordinary thing," he said.

The Six sees Schwankert and his fellow researchers pore over archives and meet descendants across continents as they try to piece together what happened to the men after surviving the most famous sinking of all time. "It became fairly epic in terms of the research," said Jones.

Eight Chinese were aboard the fateful vessel, in third class, when it sank after hitting an iceberg. Six, most of them sailors but not working on the Titanic, made it out alive on life rafts. Cameron, who won best director and best picture at the Oscars for his 1997 smash-hit "Titanic", was fully supportive of the documentary.

MOODS OF MALLESWARAM

Artist collective Geechu Galu is giving life to the worn-out walls of this neighbourhood

SANATH PRASAD

Rustic eateries serving steaming cups of filter coffee; the age-old Sampige Road, reminiscent of the Sampige trees that once dotted the lane, flower markets, the smiling faces of residents and conservancy workers and centuries-old temples including the 17th century Kaadu Malleswara Temple. Malleswaram, a suburb in Bengaluru, means different things to different people. In an attempt to weave the elements that maketh Malleswaram and to reclaim the otherwise worn-out walls of the residential area, a group of artists from artist collective Geechu Galu, have been in the process of employing street art to achieve this vision. Eventually, the artists hope to not only reclaim the streets but also make the footpaths a safer space for the local community, especially the women.

The campaign, titled Malleswaram Hogona (Let's go to Malleswaram) has been rolled out in collaboration with Bengaluru Moving. The campaign comprises 40 volunteers, including 13 artists, who are currently working on beautifying 12 walls of Malleswaram.

The campaign by Geechu Galu is titled Malleswaram Hogona

Yash Bhandari, creative lead of Geechu Galu says, "The graphic art highlights the existing beauty around each corner. Hopefully, this exercise encourages the residents to reclaim the lost charm by simply slowing down, reconnecting with one's neighbourhood and reviving the lanes lost to vehicular parking." The idea of the campaign is to advocate sustainable mobility across the city through pedestrian-friendly measures.

The team is currently working on decking the walls with art which will not merely be a treat to sore eyes but also provide a wholesome sensory experience to its residents. For instance, an artwork by Anpu Varkey, titled 'Within her stride', showcases the feet of a woman and of the locals wandering around Malleshwaram as part of their daily routine. This, the volunteers of Geechu Galu emphasise, portray the people who've made Malleswaram their home. Other artworks on the walls include imageries depicting the significance of the famous Sampige trees (after which the Sampige Road in Malleswaram is named) by Chandana BV, the disappearing biodiversity of the locality, paintings of pourakarmikas, and popular food joints, which have turned the neighbourhood into a thriving art museum.

Working in public places demands not just the artistic vision and temperament, but also the intuition of when to turn it on and off

Amitabh, artist

"Painting on the streets is a learning that comes from being street active, whether you are watching a wall or imagining a great spot, all factors influence the making of an artwork," says Varkey. Mallika Arya, who heads the Bengaluru Moving campaign, shares that Geechu Galu's artworks will become a part of Malleswaram's identity. "Working in public places demands not just the artistic vision and temperament, but also the intuition of when to turn it on and off," says artist Amitabh.

The health crisis has pressed pause on their work. "A few of our artists have tested positive and we have halted our work for now. Irrespective of the challenges we are sticking together until we finish the work and hand the baton back to the community," says Bhandari.

MANE MATTERS

EXPRESS FEATURES

Looks are deceptive, they say, but a look is also a giveaway for the first impression that people make about someone they are meeting for the first time. Is our identity solely dependent on how one dresses up? Short film Haircut by Poojitha Prasad, released on her YouTube channel, revolves around how physical appearance matters and how people perceive you based on your looks.

The story is about a young man, who is asked to cut his long hair before his wedding, to appear more presentable to his parents-in-law, which leads to an identity crisis. Though a deep topic for a short film, Prasad says the movie was made for a funny reason. "The lead actor of the movie Vadiraj Bhoja and I have known each other for quite some time. He has been growing his hair for the past four years and was planning to cut his hair short. To shoot his haircut, we decided to make a movie and write a story around it," says Prasad.

While the theme has been a topic of discussion for many, there has never been a right or wrong answer to it. Prasad says the idea she had while writing the screenplay was to relate to both characters.

We had shot the movie in June 2019, and immediately after that Anusha got busy with her other commitments and I didn't want to dub the movie with someone else. And last year the lockdown was imposed

— Poojitha Prasad

"When the hero asks 'is my hair my identity' and the time when Anusha Rao, the lead actress, asks 'can't you do this much for me', both the times people relate to the situation," explains Prasad. "The point was not to show who is right or wrong but to start a conversation," she adds.

Although the movie is only for 10 minutes, it took almost two years to finish. "We had shot the movie in June 2019, and soon after that Anusha got busy with her other commitments and I didn't want to dub the movie with someone else. And last year the lockdown was imposed," says Prasad, who has assisted directors like B Suresh.

Seasoned motorcycle rider, Gayatri Patel, is on a journey to cover more than 30,000 km to dispel myths about women not capable of riding a motorbike

Gayatri Patel

EXPRESS FEATURES

Thirty-thousand kilometres, 28 states and eight union territories, and 18 world heritage sites in India — Kolhapur resident and seasoned motorcycle rider Gayatri Patel is on a mission — One Dream One Ride.

The 31-year-old, who was in Bengaluru a few days back, has already travelled 23,000 km so far, starting from her native place Kolhapur on December 5, 2020. "The idea is to encourage more women to take up biking and sporting adventures. Many still believe that women are not capable of biking. But I am here to drive away that misconception," says Patel, who is yet to cover another 7,000 km as part of her mission.

Taking a leaf from her adventure, women from across the country have been writing to her, seeking advice on the first steps of biking. "I feel my journey has indeed made some difference among some women," she remarks. Supported by corporate endeavours, Patel's riding journey came with its own set of challenges and turbulence. But that did not stop her from manoeuvring further.

"The North East and Himachal Pradesh were the most difficult terrains to ride on. I had crashed my motorbike and suffered bruises due to the treacherous path on the mountains. Due to the pandemic, not many people were around to help me with the mechanics," recalls Patel.

Besides, keeping track of the interstate travel restrictions due to COVID-19 was a challenge and she had to undergo RT-PCR tests at many checkpoints. Yet, riding on the Asian highway network, stretching along the Indo-Mayanmar border and travelling through the state of Madhya Pradesh were her favourite experiences in her journey so far.

"I met a lot of fellow riders and villagers along the way. I believed that people would not socialise much due to the ongoing health crisis. But I was shocked when many people from different states hosted me for lunch and dinner," says Patel.

Speaking about her love for Bengaluru, the rider says, "I have always loved the city because of its vast culture. The local cuisines of Bengaluru like masala dosa, idli and vada are my favourites. Although I was planning to follow a strict diet for this journey, I couldn't help myself but relish whatever came my way," says Patel, who is now headed to Coimbatore, Kochi, Lakshadweep and finally complete her ride up in the north of India.

UTTANA SHISHOSANA
(EXTENDED PUPPY POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'uttana' means extended, 'shisho' means puppy, and 'asana' means pose. It is a relaxing asana which is similar to Balasana (child's pose). It gets its name from its close resemblance to a stretching puppy. It provides a beneficial stretch to the spine and shoulders, and offers a release to the neck. It is an excellent respite for chronic stress or tension in the shoulders and upper spine. It is also believed to offer relief from insomnia. It activates both the Svadisthana (spleen or sacral) and Anahata (heart) chakras. These chakras govern traits such as self-confidence, openness and self-love. Resting in this asana can help the practitioner feel more accepting of themselves and others. It is a hybrid pose, as well as a warm-up yoga.

- Keep your arms active; don't let your elbows and forearms touch the ground.

CARING FOR THE LIVER DURING COVID-19

DR. RAJIV LOCHAN

LIVER disease is a serious concern in India with more than 10 lakh cases being reported ever year.

Late diagnosis often leads to detection of the condition when it is at end-stage or liver cirrhosis has occurred, during which time it is difficult to treat and often leads to death. The World Health Organization has reported that liver disease is the tenth most common cause of death in India with liver cancer being the fourth common cause of cancer related deaths.

A pandemic like situation can be dangerous for people suffering from liver disease as they are at higher risk of suffering from severe complications from a virus such as Covid-19. A case in point is the earlier SARS epidemic during which liver damage was observed in more than half of the afflicted patients. During the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic, it has been observed that a significant percentage of patients develop liver dysfunction, particularly those suffering from severe Covid-19. While more research and observation is required to fully understand the link, possible reasons for this could be the impact of the virus on the liver, an undesirable immune response from the body which impacts the liver, sepsis, or medication related liver injury. During the second wave of the pandemic, more people are reporting with GI symptoms which indicate the potential of the virus to infiltrate and attack organs in the body apart from the lungs. Needless to say, patients with liver conditions need to take extra care of their body and health during this time. People who indulge in certain lifestyle habits that contribute to liver damage but who haven't seen any outward symptoms of liver disease may also find that contracting the corona virus results in more liver-related symptoms.

Individuals with pre-existing liver disease appear to be at a significant risk for complications from the COVID-19 infection. Various studies are underway to ascertain the exact impact of this virus infection on such patients.

The following are some simple ways to care for your liver, with particular relevance to the current pandemic situation

Avoid binge-drinking alcohol at all costs

With more time on hands people are turning to unhealthy habits such as regular drinking/binge drinking which is a major cause of liver damage. Excessive alcohol puts the system on overdrive to process the toxins in the system, the brunt of which is taken up by the liver. Smoking is equally bad for the liver and heavy drinkers often tend to smoke. Use this time to ease off of these addictions.

Eat a liver-friendly diet

The liver's function is to detoxify. Consuming fruits and vegetables which help keep the liver healthy and functioning effectively are important to prevent liver damage. Some examples are antioxidant rich fruits such as berries, green tea, healthy fats such as olive oil, fatty fish, avocado, bananas, nuts, and green leafy vegetables like spinach, fibrous foods such as whole grains, garlic, etc are beneficial to the liver. Highly refined, processed, high sodium, loaded with artificial sugars such as most ready to eat food items, fried food, and excessive maida prepared items are unsuitable for liver health.

Do not forget to exercise

With more time on hands, please devote time to exercise. The general perception is that exercise is good for the heart however it is increasingly appreciated with medical studies that exercise is most essential for liver health. Regular exercise which increases the heart rate to 80 percent of the target heart rate [which is age dependent; Target heart rate = 80% (220 – age)] at least 4 times a week helps in keeping the liver healthy. If you have any specific illness do discuss this exercise regime with your doctor before taking it on.

Obesity is a prime cause of non-alcoholic fatty liver disease. If you are overweight, use this time to reduce and maintain a healthy weight for your body type. If you are at a healthy weight, avoid turning to healthy foods to deal with boredom, stress etc and continue practising a healthy diet and lifestyle. Genetics can also play a role if liver disease runs in the family; use this time to get liver function tests.

Even seemingly skinny people can accumulate fat around the liver, leading to fatty liver disease as demonstrate by various studies in India. We are on the verge of a fatty liver disease epidemic and this can be easily accentuated by the current pandemic.

Practice safe behaviours and be responsible

Unsanitary needles and unprotected sex can lead to Hepatitis B and C, which is part of a group of viruses that can attack the liver. Unhygienic tattoo parlours, injecting drugs, basically any needles that has come in contact when an infected individuals blood and reintroduced into a healthy person can lead to liver disease. Taking a vaccination can help reduce the risk of contracting the disease.

Wearing a mask and maintaining social distancing is still the most effective way to not contract the disease. Given the long drawn out nature of this pandemic, its economic consequences and social isolation it demands, a nihilistic attitude has set in with society (including administrators and regulators) as a whole having developed fatigue and has thrown these simple measures out of the window. This attitude is partly responsible for the current surge in infections. Being responsible to oneself and to one another is key.

Also if symptomatic please test yourself and isolate.

If eligible, please take the COVID-19 vaccine

Although media is abuzz with various contradictory and anecdotal adverse reports about the various COVID vaccines, it has been proven by robust scientific methods that these vaccines do provide some protection against this virus.

It is strongly recommended that you take these vaccines if suffering from any chronic liver ailment or are otherwise eligible.

In the midst of the ongoing pandemic, if you experience any of the following symptoms – jaundice, water retention and swelling in the legs and feet, unexplainable fatigue, strong odour from urine and dark yellow colour, severe and unbearable abdominal pain, vomiting, itchy skin, please visit a doctor for consultation.

TO-DO LIST

- Set daily routines – get up and go to bed at regular times.
- Set regular times to do other things - cleaning, taking walks or getting exercise.
- Eat at regular times and have sit down meals with family.
- Build relaxing activities into your routines – reading, listening to music, drawing or painting
- Avoid listening and watching news or doing those that are hampering your sleep.
- Do regular Yoga and meditation to maintain your emotional and psychological health.

MANAGING EPILEPSY WHILE TACKLING THE PANDEMIC

- Be aware of the three first aid steps for seizures - Stay, Safe and Side. Most seizures are not emergencies and can be managed at home with the first aid procedure.
- Do not miss the dosage of seizure medicines. Use a text reminder app or a seizure diary to be fully aware of the upcoming chance of seizures and not missing your dose.
- Keep an adequate supply of seizure medicine irrespective of health emergencies like pandemic.
- Make sure you have a rescue medicine based on the consultation of your doctor. Rescue medicines do not take the place of daily seizure medicines. They can be used to help prevent a seizure emergency and prevent the need to go to an emergency room.

Taking on the Epilepsy Challenges

DR SHIVA KUMAR R

Rahul (name changed), 14 who had been having seizures for over six months started experiencing increased spells of loss of consciousness that lasted for a couple of minutes and dizziness within the last two weeks. He also complained of headaches while attending his classes online owing to the Covid-19 pandemic. His headache was so severe that he started missing his classes online and his scores went down.

A Video Electroencephalogram (EEG) was conducted to record his seizures and the doctors found him to be having functional seizures or pseudo or psychogenic seizures which require less medications and more counselling and behavioural therapy. With the help of a child psychologist and psychiatrist, Rahul underwent multiple counselling sessions. His spells of loss of consciousness have now reduced and with minor doses of medications, he is doing well.

The pandemic induced lock down has brought about a wide change in our lifestyle and likewise, the trends and treating approach related to several health disorders. Epilepsy, a disorder in which nerve cell activity in the brain is disturbed, causing seizures including abnormal behaviour, symptoms and sensations, sometimes loss of consciousness, is no exception. There are more than 12 million persons with epilepsy in India, which contributes to nearly one-sixth of the global burden. Here is how those suffering from epilepsy have been affected during the pandemic and the ways by which epilepsy management can be efficiently done now.

Challenges faced by epilepsy patients during the pandemic

With schools and colleges going virtual, online classes have become more common. Also, workspaces have shut and the trend of work from home and online working has gained momentum. These have resulted in the increasing risk of some kinds of seizures like functional seizures or pseudo or psychogenic seizures. Continuous staring at the screen and stress has also increased the frequency of seizure occurrences among many.

During the Covid-19 time, the elderly population with comorbidities like hypertension and diabetes and worst hit by epilepsy as Coronavirus resulted in the increasing risk of encephalitis and seizures among them.

Additionally, due to social distancing and other Covid-19 virus related restrictions, follow-up visits to the doctors have reduced and getting prescriptions for medications have become difficult. Those with breakthrough seizures have avoided reaching out to the hospital for treatment out of the scare of the virus. People from far off places could not come for their follow-up sessions at the right time.

CHANGING SYMPTOMS OF COVID-19

Covid-19 is leading to research being initiated into many common viral infections that were previously ignored, lacked interest or funding, reports say. Symptoms like a loss of smell, inflammation of heart, lungs, nerve damage and small blood clots in the lining of lungs are all not unique to Covid. Although small but a noticeable percentage of patients with other respiratory and viral infections suffer from these symptoms, the New York Times reported.

ALEXA TO HELP IDENTIFY NEAREST VACCINATION SITE IN US

Virtual assistant Alexa can now help customers find and connect with nearby vaccination sites, starting with the US. In addition to helping customers find their local vaccination site, Alexa can also answer questions about vaccine availability and eligibility requirements in more than 85 countries. To get started, just ask, "Alexa, where can I get a COVID vaccine?" to hear a list of locations close to you. Customers can also say, "Alexa, call the first one," to connect to a specific location directly and learn more about vaccine or appointment availability. "We will continue to evolve our experiences over time to provide customers with information that is important to them," Amazon said in a statement on Tuesday.

COVAXIN EFFECTIVE AGAINST DOUBLE MUTANT STRAIN FOUND IN INDIA: ICMR

Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) said on Monday Covid-19 vaccine Covaxin neutralises multiple variants of SARS-CoV-2 and effectively neutralises the double mutant strain as well. ICMR-National Institute of Virology has successfully isolated and cultured multiple variants of concern of SARS-CoV-2 virus: B.1.1.7 (the UK variant), B.1.1.28 (Brazil variant) and B.1.351 (South Africa variant), said the apex health research body. "ICMR study shows Covaxin neutralises against multiple variants of SARS-CoV-2 and effectively neutralises the double mutant strain as well," the ICMR said in a tweet.

LIKE other human problems, the problem of our passions and sexual urges is a complex and difficult one, and if the educator himself has not deeply probed into it and seen its many implications, how can he help those he is educating? If the parent or the teacher is himself caught up in the turmoils of sex, how can he guide the child? Can we help the children if we ourselves do not understand the significance of this whole problem? The manner in which the educator imparts an understanding of sex depends on the state of his own mind; it depends on whether he is gently dispassionate, or consumed by his own desires.

Now, why is sex to most of us a problem, full of confusion and conflict? Why has it become a dominant factor in our lives? One of the main reasons is that we are not creative; and we are not creative because our whole social and moral culture, as well as our educational methods, are based on development of the intellect. The solution to this problem of sex lies in understanding that creation does not occur through the functioning of the intellect. But, there is creation only when the intellect is still.

We are not happy people, at home, in business, at church, at school, we never experience a creative state of being, there is no deep release in our daily thought and action.

When we are young, we have strong sexual urges, and most of us try to deal with these desires by controlling and disciplining them, because we think that without some kind of restraint we shall become consumingly lustful. Organized religions are much concerned about our sexual morality; but they allow us to perpetrate violence and murder in the name of patriotism, to indulge in envy and crafty ruthlessness, and to pursue power and success. Why should they be so concerned with this particular type of morality, and not attack exploitation, greed and war? Is it not because organized religions, being part of the environment which we have created, depend for their very existence on our fears and hopes, on our envy and separatism? So, in the religious field as in every other, the mind is held in the projections of its own desires.

When there is love, sex is never a problem – it is the lack of love that creates the problem.

Anand Pandit

'We need to respect the government's decision'

SHILAJIT MITRA

If things had gone to plan, Amitabh Bachchan and Abhishek Bachchan would have had a release each in early April. Instead, the coronavirus, which had infected both father and son last year, reared its ugly head again. While Abhishek's The Big Bull was released to mixed reviews on Disney+ Hotstar, the Amitabh and Emraan Hashmi-starrer Chehre was held off from theatrical release. It was a tough call for producer Anand Pandit, who backed both films, since the shutdowns were not implemented then (Maharashtra shuttered cinemas on April 4).

"We had to release Chehre on April 9 but the sudden rise in Covid cases left us in a serious condition," Anand recalls thinking in late March. He decided to hold back the film till the situation returns to normal. "In the end, the safety of the audience is much important and this bad phase of the pandemic should be handled very carefully and intelligently."

A fictional retelling of the Harshad Mehta story, The Big Bull was named 'the biggest opening of the year' by Disney+ Hotstar. Though hardly ideal, the film's online reception has come as a relief to the makers. "It's an amazing feeling when an entire team's work is appreciated," Anand shares. "I would like to give full credit to Abhishek Bachchan and our director Kookie Gulati."

Anand is among the several producers impacted by the Covid resurge. Earlier, Rohit Shetty's Sooryavanshi and YRF's Bunty Aur Babli 2 were pushed from their April release dates. In Maharashtra, film bodies such as the Federation of Western India Cine Employees (FWICE) have been urging the government to relax the shooting curbs. Anand's own film, the Ajay Devgn and Sidharth Malhotra-starrer Thank God, is hanging in the balance.

"We need to understand the seriousness of the pandemic and follow the rules. Our government is doing the best it can and we need to respect their decisions."

He sounds sceptical about a potential OTT release for Chehre if things worsen. "So far our decision is to release Chehre in theatres. I hope we will get over this bad phase pretty soon."
